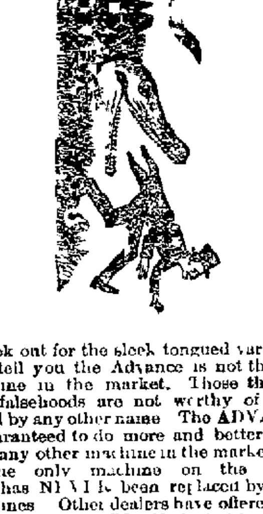
I'M AFTER THEM!



I'M AFTER THEM!

Look out for the sleek tongued varments that tell you the Advance is not the best machine in the market. Those that tell you falsehoods are not worthy of being called by any other name. The ADVANCE is guaranteed to do more and better work than any other machine in the market and is the only machine on the Coast that has NEVER been replaced by other machines. Other dealers have offered new machines for an ADVANCE that has been run two years and have given parties to understand they would give differences but were told that the ADVANCE, after two years' run was still much better than old fogy machines as they were now. And if the ADVANCE engine is not the best traction engine why is it that I have sold TWELVE on the West Side between Portland and Corvallis this year?

Selection of a Site for a Life-Saving Station.

AN ACCIDENT ON THE O. R. & N.

Meeting of the Board of Pilot Commissioners—Surveyors in the Field for the Astoria Railroad—Etc.

ALBANY, Or., July 26.—Major T. J. Blakeney and Superintendent J. W. Wright, of San Francisco, in charge of the United States life-saving service of the Pacific coast, are in the city on their return from Yaquina, where they selected the site for the life saving station recently ordered established there by the government.

The site selected, Major Blakeney stated, is on South beach at a point near the present ferry landing which overlooks the ocean and is just within the harbor.

The buildings will be erected next season and will consist of a substantial boathouse, a residence for the men and launchways. A life-saving crew of nine experienced men will be maintained who will be provided with a first class lifeboat.

The officials have been authorized to establish five life saving stations on the Pacific coast. They have established two on the Northern coast, one at Gray's harbor and one on the beach near Shoalwater bay. The station at Yaquina is the third and they will now establish two more at Coos bay and at the mouth of the Coquille river.

WALLA WALLA, July 26.—About 1 lo this morning the south-bound O. R. & N. passenger ran through a burnt bridge a short distance west of Riparia. An extra engine came to the assistance and drew the remainder of the train back to Riparia. The wreck was then cleared away and the track repaired, the train arriving here at 4 P. M. this evening. No other injuries are reported.

ESCAPE OF A DESPERATE CONVICT.

A General Prison Delivery Planned at San Quentin.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 26.—Last night Charles Paul, a desperate convict serving an eight years' sentence in San Quentin prison for burglary, made his escape.

Paul is an electrician of some ability, and last night one of the burners of the electric light was out of order and he was told to attend to it. He climbed the mast and after examining the burner came down saying that he would have to get a pair of pliers. After getting the pliers he sneaked up behind the guard and dealt him a stunning blow over the head. The guard was dazed for an instant only and as Paul was about to strike him again he closed in on him. A desperate struggle ensued during which the guard drew his revolver and fired. At that moment all lights in the prison and in the mills were suddenly extinguished and Paul ran off. The guard again fired on him and it was believed that he must have been wounded.

The alarm was immediately given and all of the guards ran to the jute mills. There were several hundred convicts at work there at the time and as soon as the lights went out they started to run in all directions. The lights were turned on as quickly as possible.

Meantime Paul made his escape leaving no trace behind him. There seems to be little doubt that a scheme had been concocted for a general prison delivery. It is supposed that Paul had arranged the wires so that when he assaulted the guard some confederate could shut off the lights. Then in the confusion which followed the prisoners hoped to escape.

TACOMA NEWS ITEMS.

Numerous Complaints of a Fiend Who Likes to Assault Little Girls.

TACOMA, W. T., July 26.—Numerous complaints have recently been made to Chief of Police Cheaney of a man who lurks around trying to assault female of tender years. It appears that the fiend who assaults the little girls is the same one in each instance. His method is to find a child by itself somewhere, entice her to a vacant building or the bushes and there attack her. The citizens of the upper hill streets are becoming thoroughly aroused at the state of affairs. Many think that a policeman should be stationed in the extreme western portion of the city to protect the children. If the sneaking assailant is caught and identified there will probably be a great deal more excitement around the jail some night than when Lattin the assassin was brought in.

J. H. Waddell was arrested at Puyallup to-night by Constable Sweeney on the charge of selling goods that had been mortgaged. Waddell formerly owned the public resort known as the Road house. He was held under $500 bonds by Judge Best.

THE DAY AT OLYMPIA.

An Article on Corporations Other Than Municipal.

THE EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

Unsuccessful Attempt to Curtail the Pardoning and Veto Powers of the Governor—Tardy Members Create Amusement.

OLYMPIA, W. T., July 26.—The convention met at 9 o'clock, the president in the chair.

Prayer by Rev. Lee of Olympia.

The roll call showed all present save as excused.

The records were read, corrected and approved.

The chair announced that hereafter the rule would be strictly enforced, and members not present at roll call would find that fact appear in the records.

Mr. Cosgrove sent to the desk two letters which he had received containing suggestions regarding agricultural education; education committee.

Mr. Berry presented a memorial from the bar of Lewis county and Mr. Joy another from the members of the same bar, both praying for the establishment of Lewis county as a separate judicial district with a superior judge of its own; referred to the judicial committee.

Berry also presented sundry petitions for the exemption of church property from taxation; committee on taxation.

Mr. Allen presented a paper containing a notice that Rev. Crafts would give sundry addresses on Sunday next on the subject of Sunday observance and inviting the members of the convention to be present and hear him; referred to the committee on preamble and bill of rights.

Mr. Power presented a petition of the Seattle Typographical Union No. 212 praying for the establishment of a state printing office and the election of a state printer; referred to the committee on printing.

Mr. McElroy presented sundry petitions for the exemption of church property from taxation; referred to the committee on taxation.

Mr. Turner asked unanimous consent for the suspension of the rules, in order to introduce a resolution fixing the hour of meeting at 9:30 instead of 9 A. M., but Mr. Moore objected, and that spoiled unanimous consent and then the convention declined to suspend the rules, so the resolution was not admitted.

In the event of a vacancy existing in such commission the governor shall fill the same by appointment, and the person so appointed shall hold office until the next general election and the person elected shall hold for the remainder of the unexpired term A majority of said commission shall have the power to transact any of its business. It shall be the duty of such railroad commissioners to exercise supervisory control over all railroads, canals and other transportation companies, associations and corporations, and over all other common carriers, and in the absence of legislation upon the subject to regulate fares and freights and prescribe and limit the charges therefor, to prevent and correct abuses, discrimination and extortion by such companies, associations or corporations and to perform such other duties as may be prescribed by law. EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

That Article Considered in Committee of the Whole.

Mr Weir moved that the convention go into committee of the whole further to consider the report of the committee on executive department adopted

Mr T M Reed in the chair

Mr Griffitts moved to reconsider section 7 in order to offer an amendment, and his motion prevailed He then moved to so amend that the governor will be required in convening extraordinary sessions of the legislature, to state the purpose of the session in the call therefor the amendment was adopted

Mr Dyer desired to add "shall have no power when so convened to act upon any other matter not stated in the proclamation

Mr Griffitts declined to accept it as any part of his programme, so Mr Dyer offered it as an independent motion of his own, and the committee waited with some expressed impatience to have it put in writing

Mr. Turner declined to indorse any such restriction of the representatives of the people

Mr Moore opposed it also. It was usual to restrict a city council in this way but he didn't believe the legislature should be so treated Their wisdom, discretion and responsibility to their constituents should be trusted.

Mr. Weir agreed to all this, and further declared that he saw a great tendency in this convention to put too many "don'ts" into the constitution He went into some comments on Mr Griffitts's amendment, and that gentleman called him to order for discussing something already adopted.

Mr Dyer had not examined them all, but thought a majority of the state constitutions had this wise and safe provision There was altogether too much legislation in this country anyhow and he believed in holding it down

Mr Moore suggested that important public matters might come up between the date of the governor's call and the meeting of the legislature

Mr Dyer's amendment failed

Mr Shoudy offered as an amendment 'And all their acts shall be as valid as if transacted in regular session and explained that courts had sometimes held that only such matters as were stated in the call could be legally acted on The amendment was lost.

Mr Buchanan thought the words 'the governor' should be used instead of 'he' in starting this section He moved to so amend but they were too many for him

Section 7 was then adopted

THE PARDONING POWER

Failure of an Attempt to Create a Board for That Purpose.

Section 9 was taken up as follows 'The pardoning power shall be vested in the governor, under such regulations and restrictions as may be prescribed by law

Mr Gowey offered as a substitute the following "The pardoning power shall be in the governor and a board to be styled the governor's council, consisting of the secretary of state and the attorney general under such regulations and restrictions as may be prescribed by law

Mr Cosgrove opposed any such political machinery to deal with criminals

Mr Weir said the committee had considered this subject fully and decided that the power should be lodged in a single individual who could be held responsible.

Mr Gowey said this argument would prevent the formation of any board for there was a divided responsibility in every board The older states are adding a board of pardon

Mr Turner was opposed to this amendment. This power had been vested in the executive head of the government from the earliest history of our country and there will be less likelihood of abuses by leaving it there than by dividing the responsibility

Mr Cosgrove said the section already allowed the legislature to experiment with this subject, which could not be done if this cast iron restriction was put into the constitution.

The amendment was lost.

Section 10 providing for the duties of the governor to devolve in turn upon the lieutenant governor and the secretary of state, and section 11, providing that the governor may remit fines and forfeitures and is to report all such cases and pardons and reprieves to the legislature were adopted

THE VETO POWER

Attempts to Lessen and Entirely Do Away With It

Section 12 prescribing the governor's power to sign or veto bills the method of adoption over his veto etc and declaring him to be ineligible to the office of United States senator during his term as governor was read

Mr Power moved to amend by providing that three-fifths of the legislature instead of two thirds may adopt a bill over the governor's veto He was opposed to the veto power altogether

Mr Weir said the committee thought that what was good enough for congress was good enough for this state.

Jones favored the amendment for the very reason that he thought experience in congress had shown the wisdom of reducing the figures.

Mr Gowey was opposed to the veto power altogether and so was Mr Sullivan, of Whitman and both favored the amendment.

Mr Griffitts did not fear the veto power in the governor, and opposed the amendment.

Mr Prosser thought if the governor had no veto he needn't sign bills.

Mr E. H. Sullivan said that was true and he was opposed to that also. In Ohio the governor neither signed nor vetoed any bill and Ohio was getting along tolerably well. All this business of signing and vetoing was a relic of monarchy and he was opposed to the whole thing. The governor should extend to executing the laws, and the legislature to making them He never saw a governor whom he thought had any more brains than a majority of the legislature

Mr Buchanan wouldn't ignore the wisdom of our predecessors, and believed in the governor both signing and vetoing bills, and in requiring a two-thirds vote to overcome the veto

Mr Moore opposed the amendment, favored the veto power and endorsed Buchanan's statement of his position

Mr Power asked if the veto power had worked as nicely as the last speaker thought it did during the last administration

Mr Moore said no doubt mistakes had been made, but they had to be brought before the legislature, and it was safer to have this power in the hands of a wise experienced man who might make mistakes sometimes than to leave the legislature free to do as it might in haste or the heat of passion

Mr Dyer heartily favored the amendment and alluded to the unbridled use of the veto power in some instances notably in the case of a recent president who was said to write veto's every morning to sharpen his appetite for breakfast. He knew Nebraska had flourished without the veto power It was unfair when parties were evenly balanced, to let a few men control all legislation by a compact with the governor

Mr Sullivan of Tacoma, was willing to make this amendment in consideration of giving the governor power to veto separate items, which this section proposes to do

Mr Turner said it had been just a hundred years since a political party in France discovered the wisdom of their ancestors and formed a governmental system out of their inner consciousness founded in the name of liberty and the will of the people The result was failure, after rivers of blood had been shed and a hecatomb of corpses piled up The will of the majority needs to be opposed sometimes We get this precedent from England as the gentleman (Sullivan) has stated but there the veto is absolute an act cannot be passed over it, while we have only a modified veto.

Mr Warner believed the people are the safe rulers of this country, and every right they have obtained since Charles the First has been by extreme measures The president who has been referred to made so many vetoes because he wished to compel congress to pass bills in time to give him a chance to consider them, else he wouldn't sign them Such a veto power amounted to nothing for the people. He would gladly abolish the whole business, and have only one house to legislate direct from the people.

Mr Gowey thought Mr Turner might just as well have gone back 113 years and cited the Declaration of Independence, which was the greatest innovation in government ever made Ohio had no veto power, and stood as high and was as powerful and well managed as any state in the Union

Mr Crowley favored the amendments and proposed not to linger too long in the lap of the past The veto power was a relic of monarchy, and is not a success as a rule A three fifths vote is entirely sufficient.

Mr Cosgrove thought the veto power was pernicious and should vote for as small a figure to overcome it in the legislature as he could get. Let the legislature take the responsibilities and not throw them upon the governor

Mr Stiles would vote for three-fifths now but only in the hope of getting a chance to vote to make that simply a majority He believed in a veto power that should be nothing more in effect than advisory Let him send it back if he thinks best but let the legislature after having its attention thus arrested, reaffirm its decision if it choose

Mr Browne said he intended to make just that speech and move that amendment. As the last speaker had made the speech nothing was left for him to do but move to amend by striking out three fifths and inserting 'majority,' which he did

Mr Griffitts vehemently opposed this and called upon the convention not to substantially abolish the veto power by taking any such stand The French Revolution the American Revolution the bad taste of dragging in Mr Cleveland, the Oregon vetoes the lobbying in legislatures the English monarchy and seven or eight other matters got a turn, not forgetting to present that hoary old quotation, 'It is a condition and not a theory that confronts us, which has been reverently handed down from the earlier times of Confucius.

With all due deference to the able arguments he had been listening to Mr Weir had not yet heard anything to convince him that the veto power ought to be abolished or cut down and he denounced tinkering with well established systems He believed that if the ten commandments, or the sermon on the mount were to be introduced here somebody would want to amend them

Mr Lindsley moved that the committee rise and report progress lost

Mr Sullivan of Whitman, was recognized (cries of Question)

Mr Buchanan called the gentleman to order as having already spoken

Mr Sullivan said he had spoken about 'three fifths but not about majority' If the Bible and 'old ruts' were to be called into this question as rules of action why not go further and quote Solomon's rule about bringing up children with the rod and quote then the direction about women keeping their mouths shut. Do they do it? [Laughter] Not much they even want to get it to constitutional conventions like this, and talk there. I'm opposed to woman suffrage but the women will never hear me quote such things as that in opposing them.' He had not heard a single answer to his argument in favor of abolishing the veto power, and he reiterated and more fully stated them It was no answer to him to quote Mr Cleveland who had vetoed more bills than all the other presidents of the United States put together ever had or ever would, unless he got back into the chair himself

Mr Griffitts—Which maybe he will

Mr Sullivan—And which maybe he won't.

Mr Weir moved that the committee rise and report progress, adopted.

The president resumed the chair, and Mr Reed reported progress, and leave was granted to sit further

The president announced that a photographer was present to take the building and as many of the members as chose to group themselves in front of it.

Mr Prosser moved a recess until 2 o'clock

Before putting the question the president asked the members to remain in their seats after recess, as the Hon S S. Cox was present and would be presented to them

The convention took a recess to 2 P M.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

An Amusing Delay in the Appearance of Many Members

The convention met at 2 o clock, the president in the chair. There were twenty-three members on hand, including the president when the convention was called to order and by the time the roll was finished the number had risen to thirty, no quorum

Mr Bowen moved a call of the house, and the clerk went through the roll again showing forty absentees.

The names of the absentees were called, and the sergeant-at-arms was ordered to close the bar of the house and not allow members to come in without proper excuse. Following were the absentees

Berry Blalock Browne Burke, Clothier, Coey, Comegys, Cosgrove, Dickey Dunbar Durie Dyer, Glasscock Godman Gowey Gray Griffitts, Hayton Henry Hicks Hungate Kellogg, Kinnear, Manley, McCroskey McDonald McElroy, McReavy Moore R S, Power, Prosser Reed, J M Schooley, Sharpstein Stevenson, Sullivan, E H Travis, Warner, Weir Winsor

Mr Power appeared in the doorway and disregarding the suggestion of the sergeant at arms, went to his seat.

The president said he would not be allowed to take his seat without proper excuse

Mr Power rose to a question of privilege saying he did not believe such a course was provided for by any rule of the convention

The president differed with him and the sergeant at arms invited Mr Power to step outside

The president said Power could present his excuse from his seat

Mr Power said he was ten minutes late and that was all there was about it.

President—Shall the gentleman be excused?

And he was excused

Mr Turner moved a recess, declared out of order no quorum being present

Mr Moore moved that the sergeant at arms take in charge all members as they appeared, and bring them to the bar of the house adopted

Mr Stiles thought he ought to be granted assistance.

Mr Power moved that the sergeant at arms go after the members and arrest them wherever found

Mr Stiles said the sergeant at arms was only one and if he were sent out, who would take care of us?

Mr Turner said that after the extreme leniency just shown to Mr Power, that was a very belligerent motion

The motion failed.

The sergeant at arms here appeared at the bar with Mr Griffitts in charge.

The Chair—What has the gentleman to say in excuse for his absence at roll call? The gentleman is in technical arrest until his excuse is accepted by the house.

Mr Griffitts—Then I move that the arrest be discharged

Mr Crowley moved that the gentleman be discharged upon the payment of sheriff's fees.

Mr Griffitts—I'll agree to that.

Mr Griffitts was excused by vote without further debate

Mr Gowey was produced by the sergeant.

The Chair—What has the gentleman to say?

Mr Gowey—I've been along with the gentleman from Spokane (Griffitts) [laughter] He was excused

Mr Prosser appeared and said he had been listening to Mr Cox, good excuse said the convention

Mr Schooley made the same excuse and was excused

Mr Berry was asked what he had to say and said nothing He was allowed to take his seat on that excuse amid considerable merriment.

Mr Gowey moved to dispense with further proceedings under the call lost

Mr Travis and Mr McDonald said 'Cox,' and were excused

Mr Gray said 'Ditto' and the president said this was the briefest proceedings on record

Messrs Burke and Dickey both said 'Cox' and were excused

Mr Tibbetts moved that further proceedings under the call be dispensed with carried and a herd of prisoners were thus let loose from the sergeant at arms to take their seats.

The president submitted a telegram from S. A. Wheelwright, secretary in behalf of the Tacoma Chamber of Commerce, indorsing, with a certain exception the memorial of the Olympia Chamber of Commerce on the subject of corporations, referred to the corporations committee.

Mr Gowey asked by what authority a roll was called at the opening of the session after a recess

The chair said it was the only way whereby the chair could be officially advised that a quorum was present,

Mr Durie gave notice that he should to-morrow move to amend the rules by putting a five minute limitation on speeches unless longer time was granted by a two thirds vote

Mr Turner gave notice that to-morrow he should offer an amendment to the rules changing the hour of meeting from 9 to 9 30 in the morning

IN COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE.

After a Protracted Discussion the Veto Power is Sustained

On motion of Mr Moore the convention went into committee of the whole to further consider the report on executive department

Mr T M Reed resumed the chair and stated the pending question to be on the proposed amendment allowing a majority in the legislature to override the governor's veto

Mr Prosser made an able and detailed argument in support of the continuance of a veto power with a two thirds vote to override it in the scheme of state government

Mr Buchanan occupied five or six minutes in following out the same line of argument

Mr Kinnear suspected that the convention was addicted to too long speeches where long speeches were unnecessary so he only spoke about two minutes in support of the committee's report without any amendment

Mr Power was opposed to any sort of veto power, but favored overriding a veto by a mere majority in the legislature if he couldn't get rid of it altogether

Mr Henry didn't go quite so far, but thought a majority was enough to require If the governor showed good reasons, the legislature wouldn't pass it over again If he didn't show good reasons why require more than a majority to pass it again?

Mr Lillis took the same ground exactly, and thought that state of things was a safe enough government for us to live under

Mr Stiles instanced the insurance trust of San Francisco as the worst one on this coast, except the Standard Oil Company The people of California claimed the right to form mutual insurance companies to rid themselves of this trust More than two-thirds of the legislature adopted the bill but the trust persuaded the governor to veto it and then it failed by one vote less than two-thirds in the legislature. The people will attend to this governor when he reaches the end of his term but now the whole people in this state as well as in California are suffering from this one man's use of the veto power

Mr Suksdorf favored abolishing the veto power altogether and hoped some gentleman would give him a chance to vote to strike out the whole section He spoke six minutes

Mr Turner considered this one of the fundamental principles of government, and did not believe the time was lost in exchanging views upon it. When it came to a mere matter of dollars and cents he was entirely willing to adopt a five minute rule or even less. He had no apology to make for presenting his views in favor of veto power with a two thirds vote to override it, and eloquently presented them in fourteen and a half minutes

Mr Gowey cited Ohio and Rhode Island as having no veto power at all, the first since 1801 and the second since 1842, and thought they had done very well since He occupied four minutes in coinciding with Mr Henry and expressing his faith in a very limited veto power

Mr Dunbar announced himself as listening and proposed to talk a little while for a rest even if he didn't succeed in amusing anybody but himself so he proceeded to amuse himself using a fan to emphasize his periods with for eight and three quarter minutes favoring a three-fifths vote to override a veto but declaring he should not be very sorry if a mere majority should be allowed to do it

Mr Godman thought the remainder of the day might as well be spent in this argument, since the greater part of it was gone already He appropriated eight and three-quarter minutes of it as his share in carrying out the scheme, and argued in favor of the regular old fashioned presidential kind of veto

Mr Browne said if he could have his way there would be mighty few vetoes good or bad The checks on legislation should be in this constitution and not left to governors. He held the attention of the convention ten minutes, showing why no veto power should be allowed to the governor

Two and one half minutes was all that Mr Dyer considered needful in which to show his reasons for opposing a mere majority and favoring the three fifths rule as a happy medium

Mr Hicks moved the previous question but was ruled out of order in committee of the whole

The question was taken on the word 'majority and the negative side prevailed—yeas 18 nays 49

Then the question recurred on the striking out two-thirds and inserting three-fifths, and this met the same fate—ayes 30 noes 41.

Mr Schooley moved an amendment by allowing the governor ten days to consider a bill in, and twenty days after adjournment lost.

Mr Turner moved to strike out the clause declaring the governor ineligible to the office of United States senator during his term, and claimed that the Constitution of the United States fully fixed the qualifications of a senator and the state could not fix them He didn't want to try to amend the Constitution of the United States

Mr Bowen declared this provision simply superfluous. The United States senate was the judge of the qualifications of its own members, and had repeatedly admitted senators elected in defiance of this very clause

Mr Gowey moved to strike out all the sentence of which Mr Turner's amendment was a part

Mr Turner was willing to accept this amendment, but objection was made

Mr Durie claimed Mr Gowey's motion was out of order but the chair ruled it in and put it, and it prevailed ayes 29 noes 28.

The section was then adopted

THIRTEEN TO TWENTY-ONE.

The Committee Again Strikes a Stretch of Open Water

Section 13 provides that the governor may fill all vacancies in the state offices, until successors are qualified adopted

Section 14 authorizes the governor to issue writs of election to fill all vacancies in the legislative assembly

Mr Griffitts moved to strike this section out, and it went out.

Section 15 then became 14, and provided a salary of $4000 for the governor, which the legislature may increase to $6000

Mr Sharpstein moved to amend by substituting $3000 for $4000, lost ayes, 26 noes, 37

Mr Turner moved to strike out the words 'but shall never exceed $6000,' lost ayes 18 nays not counted.

Mr Dyer moved to change $6000 to $8000, but this was lost by a viva voce vote.

Mr Warner moved to strike out $6000 and insert $4000 ruled out as negatory

Mr McElroy moved to strike out all except the provision that the salary shall be $4000 per annum lost in a minute

The section was adopted.

Section fifteen provides for all commissions to issue from the office of the secretary of state and defines the offense and punishment of the governor in attempts to influence members of the legislature

Mr Dunbar moved moved to strike out all after the clause relating to the issuing of commissions adopted promptly

Mr Stiles moved to strike out the balance of the section This is simply a little legislative detail which has no business here.

Mr Griffitts thought it did no harm and might be useful in deciding about certificates at this first election

The motion was lost, yeas 23, nays 30

The section was adopted

Section 16 makes the lieutenant governor the presiding officer of the senate, with a salary of $1500 never to exceed $3000

Mr Gowey moved to substitute $1000 for $1500

Mr McReavy proposed to pay the lieutenant governor a per diem while acting as presiding officer of the senate but never to amount to more than $3000 per annum lost

Mr Sharpstein moved to further amend by making the salary $500

Mr Weir opposed all these amendments and thought $1500 a reasonable sum

Mr Dunbar was opposed to having a lieutenant governor, but if there is to be one, he had better have brains enough to do the duties of the office, and $500 wouldn't attract a suitable man

Mr Sharpstein thought $500 was enough to pay any man for presiding over the senate.

Both amendments were lost

Mr Dunbar moved to strike out the clause restricting the legislature from raising his salary above $3000 lost, yeas 16 nays not counted

Mr Dyer moved to amend by allowing him to debate in committee of the whole and have the casting vote in the senate and joint convention not seconded

The section was adopted

Section 17 prescribes the duties of the secretary of state with salary of $2500 but never more than $3600

Mr Buchanan moved to change 'fair" to 'correct' so that the secretary of state will be required to keep a correct record.

Mr Sullivan of Whitman, suggested "true and Mr Dunbar said strike out 'fair' altogether because a record was a record without any qualifying word adopted.

The section was adopted

Section 18 providing a state seal was adopted

Section 19 gives the treasurer $2500, never to exceed $4000

Mr Dunbar moved to substitute $2000 for $2500, adopted—yeas 27 nays 24.

The section was adopted

Section 20 giving the auditor $[illegible]000 never to exceed $4000.

Mr Dunbar moved to amend substituting $2[illegible]00 for $2000, lost—yeas 20 nays not counted

The section was adopted.

Section 21 provides the duties of the attorney general and gives him $3000 salary, never to exceed $3500.

Mr Turner moved to amend by substituting $2000 for $3000, and $4000 for $3500 but the question was divided and the first part was put and lost.

Mr Dunbar moved to strike out the restriction altogether, and Mr Turner accepted that amendment lost—yeas 26, nays not counted

The section was adopted

SUPERINTENDENT OF INSTRUCTION

His Salary Increased From $1800 to $2500

Section 22 prescribes the duties of the superintendent of public instruction, with a salary of $1800, never to exceed $2500.

Mr Prosser moved to substitute $2500 for $1800, and $4000 for $2500, and argued in favor of liberality to any man who was qualified to take charge of the public school system of the state.

Mr Godman took the same view

Mr. Moore read a letter from Professor Turner, of Spokane arguing that the salary for the superintendent of public instruction ought to equal that of secretary of state, and Mr Moore endorsed the position taken

Mr Dickey thought this provision must have crept in here by mistake Even Seattle Tacoma and Spokane Falls pay $3000 to their superintendent of schools. Should the whole state pay less?

Mr Lillis favored the increase and Mr Griffitts and Mr Durie opposed it

Mr Weir for the committee defended its action and expressed a belief that $2000 would be a liberal salary

Mr Lillis argued again for the importance of this office, and for the increase of his salary

Mr Buchanan said $1800 a year was $6 per day for 300 working days, and he thought it was enough

Mr Prosser's amendment was adopted—yeas 35 nays 30

Mr Travis moved to go back to $2000 and $4000 not seconded

Mr Buchanan moved to strike out the restriction on future increase of salary lost—yeas 11, nays not counted

The section was adopted

Section 23 reads The commissioner of public lands shall perform such duties and receive such compensation as the legislature may direct

Mr Weir offered an amendment creating a board and fixing the salary of the commissioner but it was not seconded

The section was adopted

PLACE OF RESIDENCE

The Section Adopted After Considerable Amendment

Section 24 requires the secretary of state treasurer and auditor to reside at the seat of government and these officers and the governor and the attorney general to keep the records at the seat of government

On motion of Mr Shoudy a verbal amendment was made

Mr Dyer moved an amendment requiring the governor also to reside at the seat of government and argued in its favor briefly adopted.

Mr Bowen offered an amendment requiring the committee of public lands to keep the records also at the capitol

Mr Buchanan wanted all the state officers to keep the records at the capital, but did not press his motion

Bowen's motion was adopted

Mr Godman moved to strike out the whole section as being purely legislative and out of place here lost.

Mr Schooley moved to amend by requiring the superintendent of public instruction also to keep his records at the capitol; adopted yeas 25 nays 24

Mr Suksdorf moved that all state officers shall both reside and keep the records at the capital

Mr Griffitts opposed this and Mr Gowey agreed with him

Mr Turner said this would include judges of the supreme court and he opposed it also

Mr Sturdevant thought it would include the superior judges also.

At all this appalling array of public trouble, Mr Suksdorf lost his nerve and took back his amendment

Mr Henry offered a substitute rearranging the whole scheme but the convention appeared to be satisfied with the scheme as it stood and declined to change it.

After Griffitts had favored the amendment a while and Mr Gowey and Mr. Turner had helped him Mr McReavy didn't see how a man could keep his books in one place and live in another

Mr Durie moved to strike out the section

Mr Griffitts said the section was pretty ridiculous already, but still, much as it had been amended it had better stand

Mr Godman said the schedule committee could arrange all this until the legislature could act on the subject This is purely legislative and not the enunciation of any principle

Mr Warner thought the governor, secretary of state and treasurer ought always to live at the capital

Mr Tibbetts offered an amendment knocking out all the amendments except one requiring the governor to reside at the capital lost

Mr Warner had another amendment which he proposed, but the convention was tired and couldn't exactly understand what he was driving at, and didn't want to try very hard, and wouldn't have his amendment.

Mr Dyer opposed striking out the section

McReavy made another suggestion, which was lost in the confusion

Mr Dyer's motion to strike out was lost.

Mr Sullivan of Whitman had a substitute for the whole section, providing merely that the governor secretary of state and treasurer reside at the capital

Mr Turner moved that the committee rise and report progress lost.

Mr Kinnear moved to lay this section on the table lost.

Mr Power moved to further amend by adding 'and keep their office there at,' accepted by Sullivan

Mr Sullivan's motion was lost

Mr Travis sent up another substitute which went under the ax—yeas 25, noes 35

The section was adopted

THE ARTICLE COMPLETED

Its Adoption Recommended by the Committee of the Whole

Section 25 is as follows No person except a citizen of the United States, and resident of the state or territory at least two years, shall be eligible to hold any state office No person shall be eligible to hold the office of governor or lieutenant governor unless he be at least 35 years old, and shall have resided in the state or territory at least five years last preceding his election to such office No person shall be eligible to hold the office of state treasurer more than two consecutive terms The compensation of state officers shall not be increased or diminished during the term for which they shall have been elected

Mr Sullivan of Whitman, moved to strike out 'at least 35 years old' and insert 'a qualified elector,' but while he was writing it out the convention got away ahead of him and lost him

Mr Sharpstein offered a substitute for the entire section, which was read, as follows 'No person except a qualified elector in this state shall be eligible to hold any state office, and no person shall be eligible to hold the office of state treasurer more than two consecutive terms The compensation of state officers shall not be increased or diminished during the term for which they shall have been elected"

Mr Suksdorf offered another, which was read but the chair ruled it out of order, and Mr Suksdorf withdrew it for the present.

Mr Moore argued in favor of Sharpstein's substitute for seven minutes.

Mr Gowey apprehended that this question would lead to some more debate and so he moved (it being 5 o clock) that the committee rise and report progress but they wouldn't rise

Mr Sharpstein's substitute was adopted, and the chair ruled that this adopted the section

Mr Dyer moved that the committee rise and report progress

Mr Griffitts moved to add and report the article to the convention; accepted by Mr Dyer

The motion prevailed and the committee rose.

The president resumed the chair and Mr Reed reported that the committee had considered the article referred to it, and reported it back and recommended its adoption

Mr Minor asked leave of absence for Mr Morgans until Tuesday granted

Mr Turner moved to adjourn till 9 A M

Mr Godman moved to adjourn and that motion prevailed and the convention stands adjourned to Saturday morning at 9 o clock

THE IDAHO CONVENTION

Discussion of the Report on Corporations and the Section on Irrigation

RECEPTION TO MR. COX.

The Witty New Yorker Captures the Convention.

HIS EFFORTS FOR ADMISSION

Washington Destined To Be One of the Grandest States in the Union Notes of the Convention

OLYMPIA W T July 26—It must have reminded the Honorable Sunset Cox of the Beer Garden in Washington as some of his irreverent correspondents style the national house of representatives when he entered the constitutional convention this morning. The convention was working in committee of the whole on the thirteenth section of the executive department and pardoning power article Sullivan of Whitman was on the floor making a red hot speech for a majority vote to override the governor's veto and his shrill voice together with considerable confusion on the floor members moving about, and the laughter at one of the speaker's incisive shots made the assemblage in many respects resemble the said beer garden

There was a very large crowd of spectators at the convention both of ladies and gentlemen Mr Cox arrived about 11 30, accompanied by ex Governor Semple and others and was immediately surrounded in the lobby by many of the members and ladies and gentlemen who were introduced to him by Governor Semple as they came up

MR COX'S REMARKS

As soon as the convention came out of committee of the whole, a motion prevailed to take a recess The members remained in their seats, and President Hoyt then introduced to the assemblage the member from New York as one who had been the friend of the territories of the Northwest Mr Cox was received with applause He said he could not describe the special delectation with which he met the members of this constitutional body not, however in full session He would not talk to them while business was important and pressing

I may be pardoned for saying he continued, that in early days when I canvassed for political office in Ohio I made it a rule never to talk to a man at a threshing machine A man who is preoccupied has no time to cultivate the graces I may say that I only did my duty in congress in this matter of the admission of these new states I may say I have a special interest in these new Northwestern states, for I came of pioneer stock and know their hardships In the earlier days of my congressional career, in the admission of Kansas I followed the banner of Judge Douglas If I had not done so I should not now have been in public life for I then took my stand on the doctrine of popular sovereignty It is my pride to be with you while you are proceeding under this enabling act in which I took some interest and I may say successfully For thirty years Washington territory has been disabled Now you are acting under an act that will enable you to take your rightful place in the Union as a member of it forever

But I want to call your attention specially to one point. Before you get through this work you will find the necessity for providing a mode whereby this constitution which you form may be amended Without this your work will lack the greatest element of conservatism To try to constrain the people begets distrust unrest revolution You cannot all at once reach perfection I don't even know that perfection is desirable I well remember a few years ago drifting for days upon the ocean with a broken shaft broken because as the engineer said it was too perfect the particles of steel in it were too perfectly arranged Do not try to be too Utopian There are no Utopias in this world All you can do is to form such a constitution as is contemplated by this enabling act, and leave a way whereby it may hereafter be amended when necessary

While this enabling act was under discussion in congress I had the honor of proposing several amendments and at last I hit upon the idea wholly without consultation with any one of providing that you should enter the Union by proclamation without troubling congress any more and the idea has been adopted So now there will be no question of you adopting a republican form of government Slavery is dead and your admission will not be questioned When you have finished your work you will come in and be clad in all the glorious panoply of statehood I shall always regard this great state of Washington, with all her vast and various resources with something of personal pride. But still the most satisfying reflection is that after you and I with our little efforts, have passed away, this great state will still remain and go on in her glorious career so long as the honored name she bears is remembered

Gentlemen I thank you for your kind reception [Applause and cries of 'Go on go on'] Gentlemen, it is expected that I shall say something further in another place at 1 o'clock and as an English poet sings 'Whoso wanteth rest will want of might,' and I have come here to you to find what I can of rest amid the scenes of your kindly peaceful Pacific shores. [Applause]

Mr Minor moved a vote of thanks to the speaker and it was adopted

Mr Warner announced that a reception would be held by Mr Cox in Columbia hall at 1 o'clock. The members and others present were then informally presented to Mr Cox and for the next ten minutes he held a reception at the president's desk, and at 12 15 left the capital

IN COLUMBIA HALL.

Columbia hall was crowded with ladies and gentlemen at 1 o clock when ex Governor Semple introduced Mr Cox to the assemblage

Mr Cox said he had traveled a good deal—he had examined the harbor of New York, both above and below the water with a view to appropriations He had spent two years on the banks of the Bosphorus that beautiful, clear body of water 100 feet deep and which in other days made Constantinople the metropolis of the East, a city where sixty languages are spoken 'But why should I dwell beside the Bosphorus when I did not know the Bosphorus of my own country? What was Bagdad to me, when I had Bismarck (Dak) to see? What was Jerusalem, when I had not visited Huron? What were the falls of Switzerland when I must help to harness the falls of Spokane? So I made my salaam to the sultan I wish you had seen my final bow to him I had not met all his family He has 400 wives, but I found him a very genial fellow and very kind to Americans. So I came home, and here I am In many respects you have the proudest state, with greater resources than any in the Union Frame a wise law and a good constitution and you will grow great and strong as your destiny entitles you to be '

Mr Cox was so eloquent and lengthy in his remarks that he came near breaking up the convention for want of a quorum at the proper meeting hour 2 o clock

Mr and Mrs. Cox left the city this afternoon for Tacoma.

NOTES.

It is reported that one of the delegates from Kittitas and one from Lincoln county have become disgusted with the convention and are circulating a report that they are going home to fight the adoption of the constitution tooth and toenail.

Turner and Godman two Missourians of opposite politics made eloquent speeches in the convention to-day, and saved the two thirds to override a governor's veto

One of the territorial officials here says that he will send an amendment up to the convention pretty soon suggesting that they call the document [illegible] being framed The Constitution and By Laws of Washington

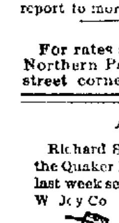
A QUAKER'S DOZEN.

Richard Stege the well known proprietor of the Quaker Dairy, No 30 Ellis St. San Francisco last week sent the following letter to the Edwin W Joy Co



'My family have been taking Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla now for months with splendid results. Our experience has been that after taking it regularly for a short time and getting the system started right, an occasional dose thereafter keeps the system in perfect condition A peculiarity of your vegetable compound inexplicable to me is that it does not lose its effect but seems to accomplish the same results continually As a liver and bowel regulator and corrective it is perfection. We would not be without it in our house. In fact I have just bought a dozen bottles to get the reduced price '

A M. Rowe of 523 Jones street S F, also writes that it has been his habit for years to awake in the mornings with a headache and an exhausted feeling but since the first bottle he has had no return of his old time debilitating headaches.

THE FISH INDUSTRY.

A Cod Bank Discovered Near the Nestucca.

OUR RIVERS TO BE RESTOCKED

Arrival of Members of the Government Fish Commission—Their Plans for Oregon and California.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The fish commission has been advised of reports of the discovery of a cod bank on the Pacific coast eight miles off Nestucca, Or., sixty-five miles south of the Columbia river. The same advices state that true cod have never before been found south of Puget sound.

Contrary to this, Acting Commissioner Rathburn says that true cod are reported as far south as the Farallon islands, the fishing grounds of San Francisco, but have not been found south of Puget sound in sufficient quantities for commercial purposes.

THE FISH COMMISSION.

The Columbia and Sacramento To Be Restocked With Salmon.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 26.—United States Fish Commissioner McDonald and Assistant Commissioner O'Connor arrived to-day from the East on a tour of the various coast fisheries. It is the first time the commissioner has ever been west of Denver.

The commissioner says he proposes to restock the Columbia river again and the Sacramento river, California, with salmon, so that in five years the catch will be as great as formerly.

The commissioner and assistant leave for the Baird station Tuesday next. They will there make some improvements for which congress has appropriated $4000, and will then proceed to Oregon and Washington.

Commissioner McDonald, in an interview this evening, says: "It is my firm belief that the supply of salmon can be increased again so that in five years there will be just as many and the catch will be just as great as formerly. The conditions must, however, be as favorable as they once were. What we want now is the complete co-operation of the states through their fish commissions as far as possible to keep the rivers pure and stock them with more fry. That is all that is necessary. Once it was thought that the salmon supply of the Columbia and Sacramento would never give out. Now Pacific coast people are getting a vast annual pack from Alaska and are saying the same thing of fish there. Probably they are nearly right about that, but at any rate we want to stock up not only these two great rivers, but the Clackamas, Santiam, Pitt and other rivers. The distinct work now is to extend the artificial production of salmon. We have one station now on the McCloud river and another on the Clackamas that together last year produced about 11,000,000 salmon eggs. The idea now is to enlarge these hatcheries so as to get a greater supply. Salmon is to you what shad is to the East. The shad supply there ran low in 1880 and the commission began stocking streams with eggs. In 1888 the catch was increased over that of the year 1880 by $750,000 worth of shad. This shows what can be done. One thing I would like to emphasize, the value and permanence of the results of fish culture will depend essentially on the regulation and protection of the fisheries by state laws. If the fish are not permitted to return to their spawning grounds or if the conditions are unfavorable for spawning, the work will be retarded."

THE MONTANA CONVENTION

A Protracted Discussion of the Suffrage Proposition.

HELENA, Mont., July 26.—Most of the time of the convention to-day was consumed in the discussion of the suffrage proposition to govern elections.

The eligibility of women to hold any kind of a school office in counties, cities and towns, including the state superintendent of public schools, and the registration law were considered in committee of the whole.

In the consideration of the proposition on suffrage, proposition 14, general file 12, relating to suffrage was first taken up, which brought up a lively discussion. Marion's substitute was taken up and read with Breen's amendment to the same.

Hartman presented a substitute for section 2, of the first division, which ran as follows, and was adopted by a vote of 46 to 18:

"Section 2.—Every male person of the age of 21 years or over possessing the following qualifications, shall be entitled to vote at all general elections. First, he shall be a citizen of the United States. Second, he shall have resided in the state one year immediately preceding the election at which he offers to vote, and in the county, town or precinct such time as may be prescribed by law, provided that no person convicted of a felony shall have the right to vote unless he has been pardoned by the proper pardoning power." The second division was as follows: "Third, the second that nothing herein contained shall be construed to deprive any person of the right to vote who has such right at the time of the adoption of this constitution."

Maginnis said he would feel like taking the stump against the constitution if the proposition was incorporated as a part of it.

Carpenter spoke against the amendment and stated that it was not right that it should pass.

Stapleton stated that he had stirred up a hornet's nest without intending to do so. He had merely advanced his theory. It was going to hear Maginnis state that he would, if it was adopted, do his best to defeat the constitution before the people.

Maginnis stated that he did not say he would oppose the constitution, but would feel like doing so.

Ramsdell and Knowles also made short speeches in opposition to the amendment.

Hogan said he thought it was right to give people who came into the state the same rights as those now here, and was opposed to the amendment.

Burleigh said that he believed it was a wise provision. He had listened to the debate pro and con with some interest. He liked some parts of the amendment, and still was opposed to the whole of it. If it were put together but in case it were separated he would vote in favor of it.

Clark asked if an amendment to the second division would be in order, and on the chair stating that it would be submitted an amendment as follows: Provided, that any person who has declared his intention to become a citizen shall [illegible] a citizen, [illegible] years. He did not believe in dividing it [illegible].

Knowles objected to the amendment on the grounds that it would disfranchise men coming into the state for five years.

While Clark was preparing his amendment the convention took a recess until [illegible].

The proposition of allowing women to hold school offices was discussed by a number and was carried.

The proposition regarding requisitions was discussed by a number of members, including [illegible] and Burleigh. The convention adjourned without accomplishing anything.

THE LEWIS BROS.' FAILURE

The Firm Confident That the Assets Will Cover the Liabilities.

NEW YORK, July 26.—The clerks of the suspended firm of Lewis Bros. & Co. were busy to-day making an inventory of the assets. The members of the firm refused to talk until the statement had been prepared. The firm thinks the assets will be sufficient to pay the creditors. Its business men think that unless a speedy settlement is obtained the assets will not be more than half of the liabilities.

Litigation is apt to follow despite the high reputation of the firm. Some of the creditors will grab everything, while those who are inclined to be friendly will fare badly. If, however, the creditors by concerted action can put the firm on its feet again by a speedy settlement, good results may follow.

It is not known where the administration will be made. The main house being in Philadelphia the administration of the estate and the [illegible] of dividends may take place there. But the bulk of the litigation, if there be any, will be in New York.

The stocks of goods are in five different jurisdictions, New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Maryland and Illinois. Open accounts amounting to $1,375,000, are scattered all over the country. The banks who hold the firm's paper believe that they will not suffer much as it is double-named paper. The amount of the firm's paper held here is $1,000,000. The largest amount held by one bank is $50,000.

The general impression in trade is that the indebtedness will not exceed $3,000,000.

ONE MILLION DOLLARS IN PROVIDENCE.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 26.—It is believed the indebtedness of Lewis Bros. & Co. in this city will amount to fully $1,000,000.

MINISTER HIRSCH IN NEW YORK

He Was Cordially Received by the Sultan, Who Gave Him a Special Audience.

NEW YORK, July 26.—Minister Hirsch arrived yesterday from Constantinople, where he had had an unusual and gratifying experience. The etiquette of the court requires that a stranger, no matter with what credentials, must have been within the city walls for sixty days before being granted an audience with the sultan.

Minister Hirsch was invited to the palace just ten days after his arrival. It was an audience on Wednesday, the usual day for the reception of ambassadors being on Friday. The sultan expressed the most cordial feelings toward Americans in general and he had [illegible] pleasant words to say concerning General Lew Wallace, S. S. Cox, Mr. Straus, the recent minister, and ex-Mayor Hewitt.

Minister Hirsch goes to Washington in a day or two to see the president and Secretary Blaine, and then returns to Oregon to prepare for the departure of himself and family to their new home.

She also promises to pay the salaries of the teachers and the pastor of the church in connection with the school.

A SENSATIONAL ELOPEMENT.

A Brooklyn Girl Runs Away With a Kickapoo Indian.

NEW YORK, July 26.—Great excitement was caused at South Orange, N. J., Wednesday by the elopement of Miss Minnie Daly, a pretty girl 18 years old, with a full blooded Indian by the name of "Big Arrow," who for the past six years has been at an Indian school.

Miss Daly's home is in Brooklyn, but she was spending her vacation at South Orange, and about a week ago a band of Kickapoo Indians, who formed a part of an advertisement for a traveling medicine company, made its appearance in South Orange, N. J. Their chief duty was to parade through the streets and occasionally give an imitation of the Indian war dance as an advertisement for the alleged Indian specific that was guaranteed to cure all diseases.

Big Arrow is about 19 years of age, tall, straight and for an Indian is rather good looking. Big Arrow, or as he prefers to be called, Chester Arrow, showed himself to be a gentlemanly Indian. He was very attentive to Miss Minnie on Monday and Tuesday, and on Wednesday morning the pair boarded the train. They got off at Newark and secured the services of a justice of the peace who performed the ceremony.

Thursday the aunt of the runaway girl received a note from her niece, in which she told of her elopement and marriage. She said that her future depended on the action of her father. The latter is a well to do contractor.

THE PACIFIC ROADS.

A Larger Subsidy Demanded by the Pacific Mail.

WILL THE ASSOCIATION STAND?

In Chicago it is Thought That an Agreement Will be Reached Between the Canadian and the Southern.

NEW YORK, July 26.—The officials of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company have notified the Transcontinental Association that unless the subsidy from the railroads is increased they will cut rates and take all the freight they can get. It is thought that this is a preliminary step to a war against the Canadian Pacific road, and the fact that the Southern Pacific has refused to allow a differential rate to the Canadian Pacific is considered a confirmation of this belief.

The Transcontinental roads intimate that they are willing to divide the through business, giving the Canadian Pacific 6 per cent., and dispatches from Chicago received to-day said that the Canadian Pacific was willing to agree to it.

If the Canadian Pacific insists upon differentials, however, a war of rates will certainly follow.

THE CHICAGO MEETING.

A Belief That An Agreement Will Be Reached.

CHICAGO, July 26.—The executive committee of the Transcontinental Association continued in session all forenoon without reaching a settlement of the dispute between the Canadian and the Southern Pacific about differentials. They will meet again this afternoon.

It was reported this afternoon that the Canadian Pacific has agreed to compromise its claims on California business by accepting differentials of about half the amount which it has been receiving. An opinion is expressed by members of the association that the Southern Pacific can be brought to accept these terms, and that the association will remain intact.

The proposition of the Canadian Pacific, which involves the surrender of some of their differentials and the modification of others, was discussed almost the entire afternoon by the Transcontinental Association and great pressure was brought to bear on the Southern Pacific to induce it to agree to the arrangement. The latter was obstinate to-day, but the opinion prevails that it will eventually yield.

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC.

A Collateral Trust Company May Be Organized.

ST. PAUL, July 26.—Robert Harris, of New York, chairman of the executive committee of the board of directors of the Northern Pacific, in an interview here said relative to the July meeting in New York: "We have not yet decided just what we shall do, but the desired end may be reached by the formation of a Northern Pacific collateral trust, which would operate in this way. For instance, under the old plan, if money were wanted for the improvement of the Tacoma terminals a company might be organized which we would call the Tacoma Terminal Company. Bonds would be issued, they would be offered in the market and this would be purchasers would ask 'What is the Tacoma Terminal Company?' and a long winded explanation would be required and before it was half over the purchaser might be lost. Suppose on the other hand the Northern Pacific collateral trust were organized and when such bonds as those referred to were issued they could be put into the trust collateral and the bonds of the trust offered for sale. The name would carry weight with it, and the process would be much simpler."

CUT FREIGHT RATES.

The Action of the Fort Worth Is Met by Other Roads.

DENVER, July 26.—An evening paper says that the seaboard rate of $2.52 per hundred on first class freight, which went into effect to-day on the Fort Worth road via Galveston and the Gulf of Mexico, will be met to-morrow by a similar rate upon all the other trunk lines centering in Denver. This latter rate was authorized by the Transcontinental Association and will apply to all the roads affected by the Fort Worth's action. Shipments may be made by either the land and canal route, by the Gulf from Savannah, or by Galveston and the Gulf as desired except [illegible].

The reduction, however, does not apply to all rail routes. So far no tariff has been issued affecting grain shipments, which, so far as the agricultural states of the West are concerned, are by far the most important of all. Whether there will be is yet purely a matter of conjecture.

AT THE STANDING ROCK AGENCY

The Commission Meet With a Cool Reception from the Indians.

STANDING ROCK AGENCY, Dak., July 26.—At the first council held this afternoon John Grass, Gall, Running Antelope, Mad Bear and other prominent chiefs and a large number of Indians were present. Governor Foster and Major Warner made the customary explanations. The Indians listened with close attention but gave no evidence of interest in the matters discussed.

At the council it was announced that fifteen beeves would be issued, and during the council which followed, with reference to the details, the Indians were thoroughly interested and finally all the members shook hands with evident good humor. The next council will be held Monday.

From a conversation with many persons more or less acquainted with the Indians, it is believed that for weeks they have been talking the matter over with each other and it is said that they have bound themselves not to accept the government's proposition.

THE ASSOCIATE JUSTICESHIP

Harrison Said To Be Determined on Miller's Appointment.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—It has come to be generally expected among United States senators that they will be called upon, when congress meets, to confirm Attorney General Miller's appointment as associate justice on the supreme bench.

Many efforts have been made to get the president to cast his eye in other directions for a man for this place, but it appears as if these efforts had been entirely unsuccessful. The sentiment in Indiana in favor of Judge Ward, of that state, for the place, is said to have caused President Harrison to waver in his determination in favor of Attorney General Miller, but it is believed that he is fully decided now to send Miller's name to the senate.

MANY SKELETONS UNEARTHED.

Probably a Band of Immigrants Bound for Oregon.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 26.—A party of explorers have unearthed a number of human skeletons, found in Chalk Bluffs, ten miles east of Yankton, Dak., on the Nebraska side. Fifty skulls and 20 headless skeletons were found, which the local physicians pronounce to be the remains of white people, both children and adults. The indications are that they have been buried for forty or fifty years.

[illegible] theories are advanced to account for their [illegible]. One is that they were immigrants bound for Oregon or California in 1849 who were massacred by the Indians. Another theory is that they [illegible] some tribal war with the Sioux [illegible].

An investigation will be made at once.

BOYS READY FOR THE FRAY.

The Portland Free Bathhouse Will Be Moored To-day.

The Large Structure Completed—A Brief Description of Its Architecture—Women Will Be Given a Chance.

"Well," said Mr. T. A. Stephens to a reporter yesterday afternoon, "our free bath house is nearly completed, and this afternoon our committee are requested to examine the work and make such suggestions for alterations or improvements as may be deemed necessary before the structure is towed to the foot of Jefferson street, where it will be permanently moored."

The reporter was invited to join them and see for himself what has been accomplished for the long suffering urchins of Portland. After waiting a short time only one other member of the committee materialized. This was Mr. D. C. McKercher. Without waiting for any more committeemen Messrs. Stephens and McKercher and the reporter started for the bath house at the foot of Lincoln street near the old waterworks. Upon arriving there [illegible] of a crowd of boys of all ages and in all stages of nudity greeted them. It was a lively sight. The boys impatient of waiting for the completion of the bathhouse were given the liberty of the enclosure by the contractor, R. G. Combs, and a glorious time they had splashing about in the water like so many bull frogs.

The outside dimensions of the bathhouse are 100x100 feet, six large tanks [illegible] feet deep and four small box [illegible] 2 feet wide and [illegible] the entire structure. The large tanks are [illegible] corner [illegible] and two small ones are built at each [illegible] front and rear ends of the bathhouse [illegible]. At the entrance there [illegible] office and refreshment stand [illegible]. There are five dressing rooms [illegible] feet [illegible]. At the further end of the structure are two dressing rooms six feet each and fourteen feet square. Altogether there are twenty-six dressing rooms.

The bathing enclosure proper is partitioned by a lattice fence into two apartments, each 50x50 feet. A false bottom made of slats nailed about an inch apart is provided for each apartment. These bottoms are weighted with bricks at each end and can be raised or lowered at pleasure. By windlasses one of the apartments will remain at a uniform depth of six feet for the accommodation of adults, while the other one will be kept all the way from three to five feet deep to suit the convenience of the boys. A walk three feet wide extends all the way around the bathing apartments, while a fence about four feet high is built along each side between the two rows of dressing rooms.

One set of dressing rooms will be provided with locks and keys. These will be used more particularly by men who carry money and watches in their pockets. While it is expected that most of the boys will bring bathing suits of their own the committee will lay in a stock of a dozen or more for the benefit of those unable to buy them. All boys will be admitted free of charge and only a nominal fee will be charged adults.

The entire building will be in charge of a man who will be clothed with police authority at the same time.

Work on the bathhouse was commenced three weeks ago. It will cost $1,500. Mr. Combs the builder estimates that 100 boys can be accommodated at one time.

The committee will set aside two days in the week (perhaps Wednesdays and Fridays) for the exclusive use of ladies. Quite a number of the gentler sex have already declared themselves on the "women's rights" question and there is no valid reason why they should not have the same rights and privileges in a free bath house as will be granted the men.

The bath house will be towed to the foot of Jefferson street to-day and moored to the wharf just south of the ferry slip. The west half of the bathing enclosure will then be covered by a large canvas to shut out the vulgar gaze of any curious loungers who may congregate at the depot platform above.

It is the intention of the committee to give some sort of a formal opening, perhaps Monday. Should this decision be adhered to, all arrangements will be perfected to-day.

RACES THIS AFTERNOON

The Tests of Speed—Pedigrees of the Horses That Will Enter—Their Record—Lively Sport

The races at Riverside this afternoon will be the most exciting speed contest between road horses ever held in the Northwest. Nine of the prominent business men of the city who own good horses have entered them for this race. The horses are all well bred and a better lot of roadsters cannot be found anywhere.

The races are held under the auspices of the Multnomah Driving Association and all the proceeds go to defray the expenses of sprinkling the White house road. None of the disagreeable features which sometimes attend professional races will be permitted. Pool-selling or gambling of any kind will be allowed. The families of the gentlemen who drive their horses in the race are all interested in the event, and the races will be so conducted as to make it pleasant in every respect for them to attend.

The races will be called at 2 o'clock prompt and there will be no tedious delays.

The Oregon Railway & Navigation Company will run a special boat and barge to Riverside, to carry people to the races, leaving Ash street [illegible] at 1 o'clock. The Portland & Willamette Valley Railway Company will run a special train for the accommodation of those desiring to attend the races, which will leave their depot, foot of Jefferson street, at 1:30. Another train will leave at 2:15.

Both the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company and the railroad company have made a special round trip rate of 20 cents. Admission to the races is free.

The first race will be between Mayor DeLashmutt's Blondie, W. L. Burrell's Dora, and H. C. Leonard's Belle Noll.

Blondie is a three year old, by Fernont by Almont, dam by Kit Chapman. Blondie is a two year old record of 3:[illegible], the best two year old record of the north [illegible].

Dora is a [illegible] 13 years old, by Rysdyk's Hambletonian. She has a record but [illegible] on this track [illegible] a year to wagon in 1:2[illegible]. Dora has been driven by Mr. Burrell for the past thirteen years, and for her age and the work she has done is a wonderful animal.

Belle Noll, a beautiful bay mare 10 years old, by Whipple's Hambletonian, grand [illegible] Hambletonian 10, dam Lady Joslyn. She was [illegible] in California and has no record, but has done her mile in 2:[illegible].

The second race is between J. W. Hobson's Hollywood, Arthur Wilson's Coleata and Frank E. Hart's Flow[illegible].

Hollywood is a three-year-old chestnut filly, by C. I. Brown's Chief, by Lockwood, dam Bell Founder [illegible].

[illegible] is a [illegible], dam Lady Fleming. He is a full brother to [illegible].

Flow[illegible] is a [illegible] year old [illegible], by Dictator, by Rysdyk's Hambletonian, dam Lady Day, by Henderson's Falstaff.

The third race is between A. J. Marquam's bay mare Lodi Maid, a promising young Bellfounder; W. H. Smith's [illegible]; W. F. Daly's seven-year-old [illegible] gelding Robert, by Magna Charta, and H. C. [illegible]'s black gelding Duroc Prince, record 2:4[illegible], by Duroc Prince.

LAYING ENDURING SIDEWALKS

Stone Should Be Used Instead of Wood Wherever Possible

Now that relaying sidewalks and crosswalks is in order some property owners are putting down granite crosswalks and more would put them down if the granite could be obtained. The greater portion of the granite crosswalks and curbs in the city came from China. Now there is a very good granite quarry somewhere near Spokane Falls and if the rock could be furnished at reasonable prices a considerable quantity of crosswalks could be sold here.

The granite is of excellent quality, the quarry having been selected by the United States engineers to supply granite for the locks at the Cascades. It is about time that something was set for wooden sidewalks and crosswalks as there is for wooden buildings. Nothing but concrete or artificial stone sidewalks and granite crosswalks should be allowed in the most frequented portion of the city. The basalt boulders [illegible] for crossings several times cost a lot of money [illegible] if their places had been paved with Belgian blocks. They are uneven and wear into ruts at the points where the cars strike, and they are slippery and [illegible].

All owners of [illegible] property on the principal streets [illegible] granite crosswalks [illegible] council should take [illegible] the use of wood for these purposes within the [illegible].

LOCAL NOTES

Indian summer is at hand.

Some of the streets are [illegible] ditched and are very dangerous.

Every dog will [illegible] has his day, but these are dog days and no [illegible].

The Pacific [illegible] of the [illegible] Portland [illegible] will hereafter be published [illegible] 114 Front street.

Mr. Henry M. M[illegible] at T[illegible] Dallas, was [illegible] duties for several days on [illegible] of a disabled ankle.

Some changes are being made to the Ninth street car track at the corner of [illegible] and Ninth streets. A gang of men were engaged during Thursday night.

Many will fly from the heat and dust of the city and seek the cool, refreshing breezes of old Neptune. The Potter will no doubt carry away a big crowd this afternoon.

"We have not had such low water during the summer season for many years as the present," said an old river man to a reporter yesterday. "It looks as if we shall see the bottom of the river before the fall rains come."

FIGHTING THE ENEMIES OF FRUIT

The San Jose Scale To Be Checked—After the Codling Moth.

The state board of horticulture returned yesterday from the Rogue river valley, where the members spent a few days studying the habits of the San Jose scale, and the damage done by it. The scale is a pest that attacks not only fruit, but all kinds of trees as well. The board found that while the scale had obtained a hold, it is not likely to spread as the remedy recommended by the board is being used to good effect and the fruitmen hope to exterminate it in time. The pest was brought from California on trees imported from that state. The board while away visited an orchard where wooly aphis had been removed by the use of remedies recommended. Talking with a reporter about the trip Secretary Allen said yesterday:

"We found that so far as the apple trees had been sprayed with the ingredients recommended by the board very few codling moth could be found and the apples are almost entirely free from it. While the trees and fruit are suffering from the extreme dry weather it is not probable that the trees will be damaged in any way. The result will be a smaller yield and decreased size of fruit, and lessened growth of the trees."

MATTERS ON THE EAST SIDE.

Several Very Narrow Escapes From Serious Fires Recorded

Horses for the Engines—What Shall Be Done With the Boys—Personal and General Notes

[illegible] recently [illegible] narrow escapes from [illegible] in different parts of the city. A fire was [illegible] some unknown way in the [illegible] Hessen's house at the Brooklyn [illegible] Valley [illegible]. The fire [illegible] the house, but it was discovered in time. It was necessary to tear the fence down in order to save the house. A fire also was started in the grass on the bank on the Oregon & California railroad track just east of James B. Stephens's grounds. It burned the fence for a distance of fifty feet, when it was stopped by tearing the fence down. This fire was [illegible] started by a spark from a passing locomotive. So far, no serious damage has been done, and may not be by people exercising precaution.

BOYS AT THE DEPOT.

A large number of boys have been making a practice of hanging around the lower depot and causing no little trouble. Only the other day they tore a slat from a box containing several dozen chickens and let them escape. They uncoupled the cars and throw the iron pins away. Besides the other troublesome antics they run about the tracks when cars are being switched and are in danger of being killed. The city marshal has determined they shall keep away. Officer Roberts was at the depot yesterday and notified all the boys he saw to keep away hereafter. This is the only course that can be pursued. If they are allowed to run about the depot a serious accident may happen.

HORSES FOR THE ENGINE.

Very good progress has been made in completing the fund for the purchase of horses and harness for Pioneer engine company, over $400 having been raised to-day. E. J. Thorpe and Walter Bartel, of the soliciting committee, will make a tour of the city and hope to complete the entire amount and collect in the cash that has been subscribed.

The committee has prepared a communication to the common council, in which Jack Fenny is recommended for the position of driver. Competent horsemen are being consulted with regard to the horses and a good span will be bought. As soon as purchased they will be trained to haul the engine. Within a month the horses will be had and all the arrangements consummated. A place for keeping the horses can be fixed in the pound.

MOUNT TABOR CONCERTS.

The concerts on Mount Tabor given Saturday nights have proved very enjoyable and are largely attended. It is certainly a very pleasant ride in the cool of the evening on one of the elegant excursion cars of the Willamette railroad to Mount Tabor where you find the grounds illuminated and excellent music provided. Take the car this evening at 7:30, Fifth and N streets. For those who cannot afford to go to the seaside these concerts are just the thing. Take your families and go to-night.

KEEP AWAY FROM THE JAIL.

When the city jail contains prisoners, the enclosure is not the place for children. Most every time there is a lot of tramps in the city jail, children—boys and girls—go in the enclosure and talk with them. They have been warned to keep away, but they persist in going inside the enclosure and talking with the rough characters confined in the jail. The enclosure cannot be kept locked all the time. Parents should see that their children keep away from the jail.

When the case was called the complaining witness, Mrs. Hickey, was present in the court, but declined to testify, saying that she did not wish to prosecute her liege lord. KILLEN SAYS HE WILL WIN.

He Feels Confident of Knocking Out California's Heavy Weight.

The Man From St. Paul Thinks That Dempsey Is a Sure Winner—Kind Words for Sullivan.

Pat Killen, of St. Paul, Minn., who is to fight Joe McAuliffe, the San Francisco heavyweight, for a purse of $2,500 at the Golden Gate Athletic Club September 11, with his manager W. E. Gooding and Professor Anderson, arrived in this city yesterday from Tacoma, and registered at the Esmond.

Killen has been on the road for about a month giving sparring exhibitions at all of the principal towns along the lines of the Northern Pacific. Since leaving St. Paul, the champion heavy weight of the Northwest has stopped six men. He will give sparring exhibitions at the Theatre Royal Monday and Tuesday evening of next meeting. His offer of $100 to any man who would stay before him has been the inducement that has attracted the local sports of the six towns to meet him. Probably the most surprised man of the six stopped by Killen was Corporal Toomy, of Fort Keogh, at Miles City, July 8th, who weighed 190 pounds and had quite a reputation as a rough and tumble fighter. He lasted exactly one round and a half, receiving a right hand uppercut which lifted him over the ropes and landed him in the scenery on his face, where he laid senseless.

Killen said to a reporter last evening that if an outsider with $50,000 in his pocket had attended [illegible] he might have had it all covered by [illegible] men [illegible] confident [illegible]. When they [illegible] the fighter [illegible] Killen [illegible] was a fine looking and well built man, but was no fighter.

"Will you care to say anything about your coming [illegible] with McAuliffe?" was asked.

"Well, I am tired of all the hot air talking about pending matches especially through the columns of widely circulated newspapers, but I will say this: I have for a long time wanted to meet McAuliffe even before he fought Glover or Jackson, but until now I have been unable to make a match with him. I am confident of whipping him, in fact will almost say that I will do so." Further than this he did not express himself, but branched off on the Dempsey-La Blanche fight, saying:

"Jack is a sure winner. He will have no trouble in whipping the Marine. He will do so inside of eighteen rounds. I have seen all of the leading fighters in the world and without hesitancy will say that I regard Dempsey as being the best middle weight pugilist in the world. He can whip any man his weight with twenty pounds added to it. La Blanche is a hard fighter, but Dempsey, besides being better schooled, is a superior general."

Again changing his subject Killen said: "John L. Sullivan, just because he is champion of the world, is greatly abused by the Eastern press. He is one of the best hearted men that has ever drawn a breath. What he has given away to the poor would make a person wealthy. If he sees a person in need he will never wait to be asked, but will immediately give substantial help to the one in need. He does not drink near the amount of liquor either that he is credited with stowing away. If he is to take a drink with a friend some zealous reporter is bound to dish it up in a sensational style."

The appended list will show that he has defeated some good men. It will be seen that most of his opponents were put to sleep in less than five rounds.

PAT KILLEN'S RECORD.

After his engagement at the Theater Royal he will go to San Francisco and train for his fight with McAuliffe.

THE COEUR D'ALENE FIRES

A Big District Burnt Over—Three Bridges and Much Timber Destroyed.

Coeur d'Alene, July [illegible].—The forest fire which swept across the Prichard and Trail creek [illegible] Saturday continues to burn [illegible] with more or less fury. At times it appears to be dying out, when it suddenly takes on new strength. Fortunately there has been almost a dead calm since the fire crossed the range. Nothing [illegible] but the usual draught, which is always [illegible] in such canyons like Prichard creek. This has prevented the flames from making rapid headway through the dense forest. On this side of the mountain the fire has run down the gulch about a mile, which leaves it two miles from Murray, and unless a very high wind should spring up there is no danger to the town. Nothing has been destroyed on this side but the [illegible] down the grade where some [illegible] saved by clearing away the brush and chopping down some trees. If they are burned the county will suffer considerable loss. This can be protected for one-tenth the amount it would cost to rebuild them. On the Montana side three bridges were burned on Sunday and the fire cleared the side of the mountain [illegible] of its standing timber. The road in some places is badly damaged. Yesterday a force of ten men went over the road, [illegible] fallen trees, built two bridges that [illegible] and nearly got the third one [illegible] force is seldom got together. Through the heavy smoke and dirt they did more work than Mr. Grant's force of twenty men would have done in three days. The bridges if finished as they have been started will not have to be rebuilt again during the present generation. The cost to the county should not exceed $100, including what has already been done.

A very large amount of fine timber has been destroyed, but for the present it was valueless and probably would be for the future except for firewood a hundred years hence. Wherever the fire has swept over a ridge scarcely a tree is left standing, and prospecting can be done with a great deal less difficulty than formerly. The sky has been thick with smoke since Saturday and the sun almost entirely obscured. The fires will burn until a heavy rain puts them out.

DORSEY IN COURT

His Neglect to Appear at the Supplementary Proceedings Due to Illness.

NEW YORK, July 26.—Stephen W. Dorsey was in court this forenoon, surrounded by counsel and friends. At noon Dorsey was taken to the private chambers of Judge O'Brien.

The lawyer who represented Dorsey assured the judge that his client had no intention of wilfully refusing to comply with the order of the court and that his neglect to attend the supplementary proceedings was due entirely to illness. Several affidavits were introduced in support of this statement. Judge O'Brien thereupon discharged him, he agreeing to be on hand this afternoon for examination.

Dorsey appeared before Thompson, Ackerly & Kaufman at 1 P. M., and proceedings were at once entered into. It was announced that the result would not be given out unless the matter was [illegible].

THE ROYAL EXPENSES.

Renewal of the Debate in the House of Commons.

A LARGE GOVERNMENT MAJORITY

The Bulk of the Liberals and Parnellites Voted With the Queen's Friends—The Speeches Pro and Con

LONDON, July 26.—When the debate on the royal grants was resumed in the commons to-day, Bradlaugh said that much of the argument in favor of the grants was based on the erroneous idea that the crown under the civil lists acts from George I. onwards had surrendered its private property in exchange for the civil list. Neither George I. nor his successors, Bradlaugh declared, surrendered anything, and the present royal family never surrendered anything of a farthing's value to the country. The committee of inquiry had elicited the fact that during the present reign the savings upon certain classes under the civil list act, instead of being applied to defray the expenses of other classes, had been handed to the queen without the authority of parliament and in breach of the statute. [Cries of "Hear! Hear!"] Smith, the government leader, has denied that the savings of the queen were over £1,000,000, but he declined to show either how much money had been saved by the queen or drawn by other members of the royal family from all sources. Bradlaugh said that there ought to be nothing to conceal. The fact of the concealing led to exaggerated ideas.

Lord Randolph Churchill argued that the original demands of the government were just, besides being in conformity with precedent. He objected to the adoption of methods, the purpose of which was to foment a clamor against the throne, which in spite of them would remain steadfast in the affection of the people. [Cheers.]

Labouchere's motion to adopt this substitute for the report of the royal grants committee was rejected by a vote of 398 to 116.

Morley will on Monday move an amendment declaring that the house is unwilling to increase the burdens of the people without the assurance that no further claim will be made for the younger members of the royal family.

Lord Hartington contended that it was impossible to lay down a hard and fast rule. He thought that the queen's waiving the claims of the younger children met the present case, and that the future might be left to the future parliament.

Sir Wilfred Lawson twitted the conservatives for refusing the grant to the prince consort and evoked laughter by recalling certain uncomplimentary references made by Chamberlain to royalty.

Gladstone, Morley, Sir William Vernon Harcourt, Parnell, O'Brien and the bulk of the liberals and Parnellites voted with the majority. The radical minority included Sir G. O. Trevelyan, Richard Chamberlain and T. P. O'Connor.

The majority consists of 252 conservatives, 54 unionists and 92 Gladstonians and Parnellites.

DEATH IS HIS BRIDE.

The Chico Elopement Results in a Terrible Tragedy.

YOUNG BIERCE IS COLD IN DEATH

His False Friend Lies Mortally Wounded, and the Treacherous Girl Is Suffering From a Pistol Wound.

CHICO, Cala., July 26.—The elopement which occurred here a few days ago culminated in a tragedy this afternoon. A wedding was to have taken place last Monday between a young man named Raymond Bierce, son of the San Francisco journalist, and Miss Eva Adkins, a beautiful young lady, 17 years of age.

Bierce's most intimate friend was a handsome young man named Neil Hubbs, and he was to have acted as best man at the wedding ceremony. The day before the marriage was to occur, Miss Adkins left her home and went to a neighboring town with Hubbs, where the couple were married. They returned here next day, and this morning prepared to make a call upon the bride's mother, Mrs. Barney. Bierce heard of the intended visit and went to Mrs. Barney's house before them. When Hubbs and his wife arrived he entered the parlor and fired at Hubbs with a revolver. Hubbs fell to the floor, but also drew a revolver and fired. Four shots apiece were fired when Hubbs ran out of the room.

Bierce then placed the revolver to Mrs. Hubbs's head and fired, inflicting a severe but not dangerous wound.

Hubbs re-entered the room and beat Bierce to the floor with his revolver.

Bierce then dragged himself into an adjoining room, placed the pistol to his head and blew his brains out. He lived about an hour and a half. Bierce also received two bullets in the body, and Hubbs was shot through the abdomen, the ball penetrating the spleen. His recovery is very doubtful.

A later investigation shows that when young Bierce heard of the couple's intended visit to Mrs. Barney he went quickly to the house of the latter, stated that he was ill and asked to lie down on the bed just off from the parlor. He had evidently been running and as he appeared to be quite exhausted he was at once shown to the bedroom. In this he remained until Hubbs and wife had taken seats in the parlor.

Mrs. Barney had set her heart on the marriage of her daughter to Bierce and when the elopement and marriage took place she expressed the wish never to see her daughter in her house again. In a day or two she relented, however, and invited the couple to her house. It was in response to the invitation that the couple called to-day, this being the first visit.

After a few words had been spoken Bierce stepped into the parlor, spoke a formal word or two, and then said: "You are a happy looking wedded couple," and then retired again into the bedroom.

Hubbs suspected trouble and drew a pistol, holding it at his side. Bierce then opened the door again and the shooting occurred as above.

The room where the fighting took place presents a horrible spectacle. The walls were spattered with blood, the furniture was turned over and broken and large pools of blood covered the floor.

Miss Adkins, Mrs. Barney's daughter by her first husband, graduated from the High school here a few months since. Bierce has been employed on a newspaper at Red Bluff until lately.

THE GIRL'S MOTHER ARRESTED.

CHICO, July 26.—Coroner Bay has taken charge of the body of Raymond Bierce and will hold an inquest to-morrow. Mrs. Barney was placed under arrest this evening to await the findings of the coroner's jury.

The people seem to think she could have prevented the sad affair had she warned Hubbs and wife that Bierce was in the house.

It transpires that Bierce left here Wednesday night, going as far as Sacramento and returning last night. It is said that he had made threats to shoot the couple if they returned to Mrs. Barney's, and that they were met by a friend and warned.

Bierce told Mrs. Barney that if anything should happen to him to promptly telegraph his father, who was on a San Francisco paper.

Dr. Radley has probed three times for the bullet in Hubbs, but has failed to locate it. He says that Hubbs's chances for recovery are one in ten.

THE FALSE FRIEND'S HOME.

STOCKTON, July 26.—Neil Hubbs is the son of Paul Hubbs, proprietor of the Wayside house at French Camp, four miles from here on the country road to Lathrop. The couple came directly here from Chico, procured a marriage license, drove to French Camp, where they were married by a justice of the peace and then visited his family for a couple of days.

Evans graduated at Amherst College in 1871, and after traveling extensively in Europe, he went to San Francisco, where his stock speculations were successful for some time, but he finally lost everything, which shattered his mind. He has since been drifting about doing manual labor. He leaves a brother, a well known lawyer in Philadelphia, and also a sister in Rocklin, Cal.

REASONS FOR THEIR SUCCESS

Years of unvarying success in the treatment of all diseases and deformities that afflict humanity have won for the Drs. Darrin a far-famed reputation. Their system of electro-magnetic treatment is now recognized by well informed people as the greatest in the world, and their success in curing diseases being nowhere equaled. This professional firm is composed of two eminent physicians, each one of whom has attained the highest degree of proficiency in his own specialties, being eminently qualified by special education and extensive experience for the particular department of practice to which he makes a specialty. The only way a doctor can become thoroughly successful is to devote himself to some special branch of his profession. Under the regular code of ethics this plan is almost impracticable, and doctors continue to make fatal blunders by endeavoring to practice more than they have ever learned. The Drs. Darrin have successfully solved the great problem and overcome all these difficulties in their extensive business by their method of treatment. In addition to a thorough course in some of the best medical colleges in the country each one of the physicians has been trained in his own particular line by practical experience under the direction of skillful specialists. Their experience is not limited to a few isolated conditions, as is so often the case with other doctors. They meet with and treat every imaginable complication of disease, and the experience thus gained together with the combined talents of their respective specialties constitutes the nature [illegible] of their unparalleled success.

Drs. Darrin's Lines of Business.

Dr. Darrin can be consulted free at 235 Fifth street, corner of Main, Portland. Office hours from 10 to 5, daily; evenings, 7 to 8; Sundays, 10 to 12. All curable chronic diseases, loss of manhood, blood taints, syphilis, gleet, gonorrhoea, stricture, spermatorrhoea, seminal weakness, or loss of desire of sexual power, in man or woman, catarrh and deafness are confidentially and successfully treated. Cures of private diseases guaranteed and never published in the papers. Most cases can receive home treatment after a visit to the doctors' office. Inquiries answered and circulars sent free.

PORTLAND, SATURDAY, JULY 27.

FUTURE OF THE OREGON PACIFIC.

The statement made by some one, who was either too careless to become informed or who intentionally falsified, that work had been stopped on the Oregon Pacific railroad, which statement was quickly denounced as untrue and without any foundation whatever, has again called no inconsiderable attention to this road. From its very location alone it cannot be otherwise than a great factor in the development of Oregon, and, more especially, of that portion lying east of the Cascade range. It will bisect the state, and for a great portion of the distance across this commonwealth it will be without a competitor for the business which already awaits its completion, and for that vastly greater volume which will accrue when sections now isolated are by means of transportation facilities, opened up to settlement. Not much has been said of the renewed activity in the building of the extension across the mountains and through Eastern Oregon; but the preliminary surveys have been completed, a contract of some magnitude has been awarded upon which work is now being pushed with all possible energy, and representatives of two or three other contracting firms are now at the front figuring upon many more miles of cuts, fills, bridges, etc., which still remain to be built. All this is evidence sufficient that the $5,000,000 raised last spring by the company upon its bonds in New York, have been made available for immediate construction. The future of the Oregon Pacific is no longer a matter of conjecture. Its success is assured beyond peradventure. For several years its management has struggled against failures and disappointments, never losing faith in the greatness of the enterprise which it was fostering, and now comes the keen satisfaction of being able to show to the most pessimistic doubter the great possibilities which are plainly before it.

A great section of country already too long isolated from the paths of commerce, though possessing vast resources, lies between the Columbia river and the California line, and the Cascades and the O. R. & N. road. With the exception of the branch line to Heppner built by the last mentioned company, this vast area of our state, embracing many thousand square miles, is without transportation facilities other than those of the most primitive character, at the best only the packsaddle or the lumber wagon. It is scarcely possible to realize the wealth of this isolated inland country. The hardy pioneers who so far form its population have little time to spread before the outer world a knowledge of their valuable surroundings. Far from the marts of trade it requires unceasing labor on their part to establish themselves in comfortable competencies. Every two years they send representatives to the state legislature, men of brain as well as brawn, who tell their colleagues of the rich store houses of nature not yet unlocked, and invite a closer acquaintance. But the most that the state can do for them is to build wagon roads. This, to the credit of the good sense of the last legislature, be it said, was done by it quite liberally. Occasionally we read of great mineral deposits too far away from a railroad to be developed, sections of land which would yield fine crops which it were no use to raise for lack of a market, and also of the greatness of the two principal industries of this region, wool growing and stock raising, in both of which money can be made despite the obstacles which we have noted.

How much more prosperous then will be the people of this region, how much more extensive will become their present resources and how rapidly will they increase in number, when a railroad pierces the very heart of this unknown land, so unknown, indeed, that but recently so great a paper as the Scientific American characterized it as "a vast, sterile, unproductive plain." Every benefit which should accrue to the railroad which does so much for this interior country will be reaped by the Oregon Pacific. If there were no other aim in its construction than to develop Central Oregon, the road would be a financial success, as well as a public benefit. But we do not lose sight of the fact that the bonds of this road, upon which the $5,000,000 for further construction were raised, were guaranteed by men well known in the financial world, men whose names are prominently connected with the Chicago & Northwestern, a road that has aspirations to be a transcontinental line, and whose connection with the Oregon Pacific at Boise city will accomplish the desired end.

The improvement of Yaquina bay, for which congress has been so ardently and so successfully importuned in the past, will also accrue to the benefit equally of the people of the state and of the stockholders of these two railroads. The management of the Oregon Pacific has worked continually for this improvement, and pending its completion has not pushed the construction of the extension of the road so rapidly as otherwise it would have done. To make the operation of this line a complete success requires a harbor at the western terminus of the road, where deep sea ships can come and go without delay of any kind. By the time this is accomplished the railroad will be built, and Oregon will have another shipping point for her rapidly increasing products.

YAQUINA BAY.

A considerable amount of the last appropriation for the improvement of Yaquina bay still remains unexpended, although work has been vigorously pushed on the two jetties during the past year. It is, therefore, not at all surprising that the engineer in charge, in submitting his annual recommendations to the war department, should have asked only for $75,000 for the continuance of the improvement. This sum is probably all that can be used to advantage during another year, when added to that which still remains unexpended. While the work now being done at Yaquina has already been and will continue to be of almost incalculable benefit to this harbor, and to all that section of Oregon which has been and is to be benefited by its improvement, yet it is not a costly work, and all sums expended upon it have been honestly disbursed. Probably no other government work in the Pacific Northwest will show so much for the same amount of money expended as that at Yaquina bay.

The plan of improvement adopted here is the construction of two jetties extending into the ocean, starting from the two capes at the entrance to the bay, one bearing toward the other, thus narrowing the entrance about one-half. The south jetty is now constructed as far seaward as is deemed advisable, that is, the piling and other woodwork is completed and a railroad track laid, upon which cars loaded with stone are carried out and the stone dumped into the bay among the piling. This task of building a rock barrier which shall prevent the waves from washing sand up into the harbor entrance is a large one, but when completed it is believed it will be permanent, and in connection with the jetty upon the other side, to be similarly constructed, will accomplish all that can be desired toward making Yaquina a first-class port.

The north jetty now skirts the north cape a distance of a quarter of a mile and then starts seaward, inclining toward the other jetty in a small angle from a parallel line. It has not yet reached the low tide line, owing to the rock bottom which has been encountered and which necessitates the blasting of holes for the piling. All the men who can be profitably employed on these two jetties are now at work, and the progress, though somewhat necessarily slow, is yet fully equal to the expectations of the engineers who have planned the improvements, and of the people who are most interested in them.

The depth of water already attained on the Yaquina bar is something surprising to those who remember that before any improvements were begun at this point there were frequently not more than five feet of water at low tide. Now there is at no time less than three times that amount, and if one can believe the captains of tug boats and fishing schooners who daily go in and out over the bar, the depth has this year increased to nineteen feet at low tide, and the channel, which was once very tortuous as well as shallow, has now become a very good one.

REGENERATED ITALY.

If the brother of the Catholic Sentinel will read the following from an article by Hon. William E. Gladstone in the Nineteenth Century, and if the brother's mental capacity is not impenetrable, the same may do him good:

> I visited Naples in the winter of 1850. I saw it no more until the winter of 1888-89. The change which has passed upon the city in thirty-nine years is enormous. At the earlier epoch, the reaction which followed the abortive efforts of 1848-49 for national deliverance was celebrating not only its triumph, but its saturnalia. Personal liberty was deprived of every guarantee. No country, except France, between 1789 and the empire, has ever undergone, in a like space of time, such changes as have passed upon Italy in the last twenty years. Now a nation of nearly 30,000,000 has taken its place, by an unquestioned title, among the great and ruling powers of European Christendom. Italy had to face and solve the deplorable questions of the temporal power attached to popedom. The revolution which made Italy a nation has been hailed by the mass of the community and accepted in the main by every class. As regards the clergy their numbers do not seem to have undergone inconvenient diminution. In the community at large the national sentiment appeared to be universal. Upon the whole I take it to be a solid and established fact that the unity, nationality and independence of Italy are not the mere throw of a political movement, which some following convulsions may displace, but are the long-prepared and definitive results of causes permanent in their nature; and are, notwithstanding dangers, some of them most subtle and others visibly alarming, to be reckoned with on the same footing of the unity, independence and nationality of other great European countries. The king is prized for his absolute good faith and loyalty to the constitution. The queen has taken a high place in the public estimation. But there is one sign which, in my mind, surpasses all others in establishing the genuineness of the Italian reconstruction and as a promise of permanence; it is the absolute freedom of speech and writing. The government of Pius IX. yielded in 1870, but yielded only to sheer force. The permission to abide in Rome, and to possess the Vatican in an isolated and silent but as far as I can understand complete independence, was a permission to which no parallel can be found in the annals of conquered states. Real progress has been made in papal circles towards the acknowledgment of an Italian royalty and nationality; but the claim to a temporal dominion is steadily maintained.

Montana constitution makers are having a lively, if not a profitable time in determining the proper qualifications for electors of the new state. If men could discuss this question as calmly and dispassionately as they discuss others of far less importance to individuals and to the general public, there would be little difficulty in reaching a just and equitable conclusion. But for some reason the question of suffrage, whether upon the basis of educational qualifications, financial status, common intelligence, or sex, rallies all of the discordant elements of debate which wait upon unreason and intolerance, and the discussion, so called, ends, as in the Montana convention Thursday in shouts of "Mr. President" and yells for adjournment. Such a spectacle is not an imposing one and warrants the somewhat prevalent belief that more people enjoy the suffrage now than are qualified to exercise it for the good of the state. Ignorant citizens and foreigners wholly unacquainted with our institutions, whom Montana statesmen are trying to shut out, and women whom statesmen in all of the conventions are determined to repress might not do any better than some qualified electors who have placed themselves upon record in the matter of suffrage from time to time, but they could scarcely do worse. Hence the heated endeavor of some men to decide who it is proper for them to accept as their political peers verges at times upon the ridiculous.

One of the strongest arguments in use by those who favor woman suffrage is that, without being permitted to share in legislation affecting her interests, she will not be secure in her legal rights. Nebraska in 1882 refused to grant women the ballot, by a vote of two to one. Yet the legislature of that state has passed a law giving the widow instead of dower, which was only a life estate, one-half her late husband's estate absolutely where there is no issue or only one child, and one-third of the estate, when there are two or more children. The law further provides that the widow "shall be entitled to her distributive share of the lands whereof her husband was seized at any time during marriage, unless she joins in a deed of concurrence with her husband, or is otherwise lawfully barred."

Those who claim that the United States made a poor investment in the purchase of Alaska, are respectfully referred to this statement, viz: "The salmon fishery of Alaska is extending rapidly. In 1883 the number of cases packed was 30,000; last year, 439,293, and this year it will be over 1,000,000." And this is not all. The seal and mining industries are developing at a wonderful rate, and the income of the government from Alaska is a very good return for the outlay.

The chief of police of Spokane Falls has issued an order warning all persons who will not work and who have no visible means of support, either to find employment or leave the town, on pain of arrest. This is a good order. Western towns are afflicted with lawless men, too lazy to work but not too honest to steal and plunder. We have room for all men who will help themselves, but the space occupied by idleness is far more valuable than their company.

Objections to the "tipping system" now greatly in vogue in this country, are numerous. The objectors cry aloud but offer no remedy. This "tipping" has grown in great measure from the actions of snobs, who wish to appear ostentatiously generous; and now other people are drawn into the consequent results. Like a great many other annoyances, we must either grin and bear it, or refuse to "tip," and take the consequences.

As early as 1851, the laws of the state of New York declared against teaching religious doctrines in public schools. In the New York statutes of 1851, chapter 386, section 18, it is enacted that: "No school shall be entitled to, or receive, any portion of the school moneys in which the religious doctrines or tenets of any particular Christian or other religious sect shall be taught, inculcated or practiced."

The life-saving service is a branch of public work that accomplishes stupendous results with very little noise. The first year, the government spent for this department $20,000. The amount has now grown to $800,000, and last year 2900 lives were saved.

Fire has destroyed grain in the field to an unusual extent this season in this state and Eastern Washington. The sparks from the passing engine has been the agent of destruction in every case reported and thousands of bushels of wheat, just ready for the reaper have been destroyed. Farmers are utterly powerless to provide against calamity of this kind. Insurance is the only resource, and this, owing to the danger, is so high that few of them can afford to pay the premium. Railroad companies should use every possible precaution to prevent such disaster, as it lies in their power to reduce the danger from this source to the minimum.

During the year preceding May 1, 1889, the director of the Pasteur Institute, Paris, treated 1673 patients under the theory of inoculation propounded by Pasteur, with the total result of one death in 128. This proves the treatment valuable yet not infallible, as was first claimed by its thoughtless adherents.

Ohio has a law by which a third term man in the penitentiary becomes an "habitual criminal" and liable to imprisonment for life. This seems a hardship, but it is not more so than that wisdom which insists upon the isolation of the unfortunate who is afflicted with a contagious and incurable disease.

The census of 1880 barely mentioned Spokane Falls, but the census of 1890 will give that enterprising town a population of not less than 25,000. Not only has Spokane grown in numbers, but she has developed wonderfully in public spirit, and she possesses all the elements of permanent prosperity.

McDow was tried by a jury and acquitted. His second trial was by public opinion. Verdict guilty. Sentence, social ostracism and eventual banishment. If Dawson's murder will assist in making crime odious in the South his blood will not have been spent in vain.

It is suggested as expedient to create national and state boards of arbitration, after the model of the interstate commerce commission, with power to arbitrate and settle all disputes arising between labor organizations and combinations of business interests.

JOHN ENGE
Has a lot facing east on North First street, improved, which is for sale at $20,000. 27j1*

Now that you mention it, I too, am positive that no property on the market will so certainly advance as West Portland lots. It is as near the Court House as Mount Tabor, on best side of the river; healthy and sightly; sold at the nominal price of $120, $10 down and $10 per month with probably five-cent motor line and possibly two 5 cents fare. Some of the lots not in the pool have sold already for $250 each. The pool has 800 lots, 8 of them 80 acre lots, worth now, each $2000; all the same at same price of $120. No reason why these lots will not advance to $500 and $600 each, and that soon.

DON'T WAIT
Till the opportunity is lost, but throw in "fiver" into Vancouver. We have sold dozens of pieces of property three times over, at an advance of 25 to 50 per cent each time within a year and the real advance has not begun yet.

COMMISSIONER DUNNE AFTER THE CITY

It Is All About the Non Payment of the Cost of Putting in a Telephone

County Commissioner Dunne is on the war path. To use an expression one occasionally hears he is kicking like a bay steer. He has rolled up his sleeves and is going after the city of Portland and he is going to keep after the aforesaid city of Portland until he knocks it out—or gets knocked out. The cause of the trouble as he tells it is this

Four months ago the county court concluded to put a telephone in the poorhouse, and I asked Mayor DeLashmutt if the city would pay one-third of the cost if the line was extended to the pesthouse. He agreed. The county has paid its two-thirds of the cost, but the telephone company s collector has been unable to get a cent out of the city and keeps dunning me until I am almost pestered to death. I have spoken to Councilman Farrell about the bill and he tells me that Mayor DeLashmutt had no authority to enter into the agreement without the consent of the council. I wish you would go and see Farrell and put a bee in his ear and make him understand that it is a just claim and should be paid

The reporter started to look up Councilman Farrell and found him strolling down Front street wearing a broad grin. He laughed when told of Commissioner Dunne s request and said

You go back and tell Dave Dunne to go bag his head. He and Mayor DeLashmutt have got themselves into a scrape and let them fight it out

Councilman Farrell had another good laugh and went his way rejoicing

BACK FROM YAQUINA BAY

Return of Captain W Young From an Inspection Tour

Captain W Young United States engineers has returned from a visit to Yaquina to inspect the government work in progress there under his charge. Work is going ahead favorably. Since the new wharf was completed on the south side about 3000 tons of rock has been put into the south jetty. This jetty is now practically completed to its full hight. The jetty proper is 3600 feet in length but it has been extended on the shore till the entire rockwork is 425 feet in length. About all that remains to be done to complete the jetty is a finishing course of big stone along the top

Work is progressing slowly on the north jetty, the cars for the tramway not having arrived. They are expected on the next steamer having been sent out over the Northern Pacific and thence to San Francisco

Captain Young states that the number of visitors at Newport and vicinity is larger than ever before the hotels being full and many being accommodated in private houses and tents.

IDAHO AND WYOMING TO COME IN

Congressman Burrows Thinks Congress Will Make Two More States

Congressman Burrows speaking with an OREGONIAN reporter before his departure for the Sound yesterday, said

"I think an extra session of congress is to be called and I think it a wise move. I do not see how it is possible for the Fifty first congress meeting at the constitutional time to do what the American people expects of it without protracting the session long into the summer. By meeting in October the house can be organized, committees appointed and the work of congress well laid out and entered upon before the holiday recess, which will be a gain of at least two months in the work of the session"

Congressman Burrows believes that the fifty first congress will admit Idaho and Wyoming. Both are entitled to admission in point of population

'I HAVE KILLED HIM'

A Boy on the Clackanine Brings Down a Big Bruin

Messrs. F Opitz and M Beno a short time since went down on the Clackanine, where Mr Webster is building a dam by a mill site to enjoy some fishing. One day Webster went out hunting grouse. Beno went fishing and Opitz loafed around camp. While lying in the shade of a clump of brush he heard something stepping around and supposing it was a grouse rose up to look for it. He saw a boy running across a field near towards the house. Mr Opitz did not see any grouse, but a few moments later heard a "bang bang" and heard the boy yell "I have killed him" ... Going a short distance Mr Opitz found that the boy he had seen running had shot a big bear. ROYAL PAUPERS.

Our dispatches yesterday reported an interesting debate in the British parliament concerning the voting of further money supplies to support the royal pauper children and grandchildren of Victoria. On this question the Gladstone party divided Labouchere, who is a radical of aristocratic lineage, fairly argued that since the queen and her family annually received $3 500 000 and the queen was enormously rich because of her large savings from the civil list for fifty years, she ought to help provide for the royal household During the lifetime of Prince Albert the queen made a great deal of money for Prince Albert was an able financier and invested her money so carefully that the queen became rapidly rich

This contention over royal grants to support royal paupers is no new thing in England In 1840 when Prince Albert married Victoria a dispute arose over the proposition for the settlement of an annuity on the prince In former cases—those for example, of Queen Charlotte Queen Adelaide and Prince Leopold of Belgium on his marriage with the Princess Charlotte—the annuity granted had been £50 000 In 1840 Mr Hume moved it to be £21 000 This was defeated and finally £30,000 was voted In March 1872 Sir Charles Dilke moved an inquiry into the manner in which the income and allowances of the crown were expended Sir Charles acted at an unfortunate time, for the Prince of Wales then lay at the point of death with typhoid fever Gladstone replied to Sir Charles Dilke in a speech of unexampled force and passionate invective and Dilke was fairly hooted and hissed into oblivion although he was supported by a very able liberal of aristocratic lineage Auberon Herbert Gladstone has changed his views on many subjects since 1872 but to day he is evidently of the same mind that he was seventeen years ago for in the debate of the 25th inst. he opposed his radical friend Labouchere, and supported the government saying he was averse to all measures of economy that impaired the dignity and splendor of the crown, and his chief lieutenant, Morley, supported him

The curious thing is that Labouchere who belongs to the aristocracy by blood and close family relations, is the leader of the radical opposition to further royal grants, while Gladstone and Morley who voice the great commercial, professional and literary middle classes of England, vote with the conservatives for the proposed grant. But the fact that over 100 members sided with Bradlaugh and Labouchere in refusing to vote a penny unless the queen's savings were rigorously investigated shows increasing dissatisfaction since March 1872, when Dilke was voted down almost unanimously The opposition is now so strong that the government will be obliged to withdraw its resolution to the effect that separate allowance shall be made to the Prince of Wales's children in view of the prospective marriages and that their right to enlarged grants hereafter should be acknowledged, and adopt the proposition of Mr Morley which embodies a concession to Labouchere and Bradlaugh Under Morley's resolution no separate income will be awarded Prince Albert Victor and Princess Louise of Wales but the annual sum now paid to their father the Prince of Wales will be increased by an allowance of some £10 000 for the purpose of enabling him to provide marriage portions for his children This arrangement establishes no precedent for parliamentary grants to the queen's other grandchildren, but is construed as an indirect disapproval of any such permanent policy This solution of the dispute over the support of the royal paupers both present and prospective is not proof that England is tired of royalty, for Gladstone still supports it with his voice and vote but it is proof that they do not love it well enough to pay too much for the luxury of court and sovereign In the language of an English writer England is not willing to be extravagantly taxed to support a rabbit warren, to which this writer compares the numerous progeny of the queen The English people have since 1872 reached that point where they do not hesitate to declare that if the sovereign's income so greatly exceeds her expenditure that she has been able to amass a vast private fortune she ought to provide for the children and grandchildren who are not in the direct line of royal succession So strong is the feeling in both parties that the Prince of Wales is reported to have said that while he will be permitted to reign if he survives his mother he is doubtful whether his own heir will be permitted to occupy the throne

PROHIBITION IN ENGLAND

Richard Card an English prohibitionist reports that English capital is buying American breweries because they realize that prohibition will be enacted in England before it will be in America hence those investments beyond the Atlantic This is an assured forecast of the future England will never enact prohibition because she has tested its utter worthlessness more than once in her history Her ablest political economists and statesmen are all on record against it and the last time the subject came up before parliament the committee unanimously reported against any further experiments in sumptuary legislation saying that the history of English legislation had proved the vicious effect of all statutes that attempted to deal with the drink question by the direct or indirect application of the principle of prohibition

The real reason why English capital seeks investment in American brewing plants is the same which impels English capital to invest in American iron plants American wheat land and cattle ranges The English capitalist expects to get a larger dividend on his capital than he can hope to secure in England The English investor in American brewing plants expects to bring over to America the most approved methods of beer making and the best help and in this way to secure a vast return from his investment There is nothing [illegible] in the eagerness with which English capital seeks investment in American timber land iron coal gold and silver mines and why should we need to go far to explain why English capital is buying American beer brewing plants? Carnegie is not the only [illegible] who [illegible] capital [illegible] wheat [illegible] brewers [illegible] beer [illegible] cause [illegible] he can make a [illegible] is manufactured by Americans [illegible] rule and he is [illegible] slowly in his efforts to get [illegible] is the true and natural explanation of the fact that English capital seeks investment in American breweries, and the explanation of the English prohibitionist that the impending shadow cast by prohibition in England is already so long as to alarm English brewers and persuade them to transplant their business to America is absurd Prohibition died in England more than a century ago and it has never secured a respectful or serious audience or treatment from the lawmakers of England from that day to this

Probably one reason which persuades English capital to invest in American brewing plants is the fact that the official figures of our United States bureau of statistics shows that the consumption of malt liquors increased 48 of a gallon per capita or 4 per cent last year, and 5 8 gallons per capita or 87 per cent during the ten years, 1878 88 The general tendency throughout the United States is to substitute fermented for distilled liquors and this is the more remarkable because the efforts of the prohibitionists have been chiefly directed at the sale and use of malt liquors and wines, because they hold that prohibition is more easily enforced as to articles comparatively bulky in proportion to value, which cannot profitably be moved about the country secretly for retail sales But the consumption of wines increased about 10 per cent last year and 25 per cent during the ten years, 1878 88

A HEALTHY GROWL.

Governor Beaver of Pennsylvania, who has superintended the stupendous work of relieving the necessities of the Johnstown survivors expresses himself as encouraged in the belief that the sorely stricken people are getting on their feet" again He bases this opinion upon the fact that they are growling so fiercely about the methods which have been followed in the distribution of funds and supplies and adds "These people have been utterly disheartened, but when a disheartened man begins to growl there is hope for him"

It is a fact numerously attested by evidence that it is perfectly impossible to satisfy everybody in a work of this kind The most unreasonable man in the world is the beneficiary and the woman who wears uncomplainingly a four cent calico gown that she has earned will hold the gingham that has been given her to the light to examine its quality express doubts as to whether it will "wash," and end by accepting it with an injured air suggestive of a firm belief than the donor has cheated her

The state committee for the distribution of the Johnstown relief funds, is composed of some of the best business men of Pennsylvania and they have worked energetically and systematically for weeks in the interests of the needy The first duty was to feed the hungry clothe the naked and provide shelter for the homeless, and so thorough was this work that since within the first three days of the disaster, no one has been without the bare necessaries of life Six hundred houses have been made ready for occupancy, the work of relief going on wherever necessary while the construction was in progress At this stage of proceedings the "growl" comes, The people want money They don't want houses Of course business men know better than to strike a dividend of the funds and disburse the same to the list of applicants. Relief of this kind would be interminable, and recognizing this fact the money has been carefully handled and such sums as have not been required for immediate relief have been expended with the purpose of making the people able to help themselves, or held in reserve for future need

To help an able bodied person beyond what is necessary to give him a start is a detriment to him and through him to the community since it saps his independence undermines his self respect and makes him an importunate solicitor of alms where at first he shrunk from accepting assistance This is the universal rule and those who have handled a nation's charities in disbursing the funds given to stricken Johnstown deserve credit for having borne this in mind, rather than censure for what a number of the beneficiaries impatient to handle the money have denominated the "red tape measures of relief"

It is doubtless as Governor Beaver says Growling is an indication of renewed interest in life and as the Cambria Iron Works and the Johnstown Street Railway Company, the two corporations that the people mainly look to for employment, will soon have as many men at work as before the flood, industry will come in and put the work of relief into the hands of the people themselves

A dispatch from Denver gives the shocking details of the death by lynching of a depraved woman of the great plains known as "Cattle Kate" for indulgence in that supreme crime of the border significantly known as "cattle rustling" A woman lost to all sense of womanliness coarse by nature and gross by association and practice her repulsive and unnatural life was ended by a most repulsive and unnatural death Pity for a nature so distorted and depraved is stronger even than pity for a final doom so horrible Her lawless executioners, we are told are among the foremost cattlemen of the Sweetwater valley a statement that implies respectability and indicates the interpretation of that word among the men who live in the saddle and who in guarding their possessions from the predaceous rovers of the ranges, come to regard cattle and horse stealing as the chief of crimes No other condition of affairs than that which exists in the cowboy districts could produce such a feminine monstrosity as existed in the person of this brawny bronzed woman who rode drank and caroused with and like lawless men and was hanged without compunction for engaging with them in "cattle rustling" It is a condition that is the outgrowth of the cattle industry as organized and conducted upon the great ranges, the result largely of the depravity that follows in the train of nomadic life destitute as it necessarily is of the restraints and refinements of home and society

Pimples to Scrofula

Every humor, from pimples to scrofula, except ichthyosis, is speedily, permanently, and economically cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES. This is strong language, but true. It will encourage thousands of hopeless sufferers who have tried and found wanting both physicians and medicines, to make one more effort to rid themselves of these terrible afflictions CUTICURA is the only positive cure.

Cured by Cuticura

For three years I was almost crippled with an awful sore leg from my knee down to my ankle the skin was entirely gone and the flesh was one mass of disease Some physicians pronounced it incurable It had diminished about one-third the size of the other and I was in a hopeless condition After trying all kinds of remedies and spending hundreds of dollars from which I got no relief whatever I was persuaded to try your Cuticura Remedies and the result was as follows After three days I noticed a decided change for the better and at the end of two months I was completely cured My flesh was purified and the bone (which had been exposed for over a year) got sound. The flesh began to grow and to day and for nearly two years past my leg is as well as ever sound in every respect and not a sign of the disease to be seen S G AHERN Dubois Dodge Co Ga.

I have been troubled with scrofula seven years which first started on the top of my head giving me infinite trouble with constant itching casting off of dry scales and a watery liquid exuded from under the scales. I treated it for seven years unsuccessfully and was unable to check it until I found your Cuticura Remedies. One box Cuticura one cake Cuticura Soap and one bottle Cuticura Resolvent completely cured me my skin becoming perfectly clear and smooth S T DAVIS Artesia, Los Angeles Co Cal

Your CUTICURA REMEDIES have done great things for me They cured a skin disease of many years standing Have tried many other remedies but nothing did me any good until I commenced using your CUTICURA REMEDIES. I can recommend them to all MRS C W BROWN Tarna Hala Kas.

Scalp Diseases

I have been troubled with a skin and scalp disease for seventeen years. My head at times was one running sore and my body was covered with them as large as a half dollar I tried a great many remedies without effect until I used the CUTICURA REMEDIES and am thankful to state that after two months of their use I am entirely cured. I feel it my duty to you and the public to state the above case L R McDOWELL, Jamesburg, New Jersey

I am thankful to say that I have used the CUTICURA REMEDIES for about eight months with great success and consider myself entirely cured of salt rheum from which I suffered for six years. MRS A McCLAFLIN, Morette Mo

NOTE AND COMMENT.

There is a fair average of all sorts in the Washington convention. Out of seventy-five delegates law has twenty-one, farmers fifteen, physic six, trade but six, and money counts five bankers. The rest are divided among the occupations and form a wholesome assortment. It has been asserted that they are men of good capacity to build a state from. Otherwise it has been said that it is a mediocre assemblage, with small brain power and less wit and comprehension. Talk is cheap, and those who are least able to judge correctly often talk the most. So far the work done gives evidence that the delegates are men of sound mind and decidedly good intuitions.

A hop-grower remarks that owing to the season the hop crop will not be more than two thirds a usual yield. He says the vines bear well on top, or top out well, but the bunches are more compact than he has ever seen them; that is, are close together. We have only dry weather to complain of, but it may cause a poorer quality than usual. The best thing that can be done is to cultivate fully and carefully. Repeated plowing of the bottom soil where hops invariably have been planted, will keep it moist; running a cultivator often would probably insure a full yield and good quality. Some people cannot believe that stirring the top soil is equal to a shower of rain.

There is now projected a design for carrying the mails by electricity between Boston and New York. A string of iron posts will carry the line, something after the fashion of an elevated railroad, reaching from the postoffice at "The Hub" to the other at Gotham. Cars will carry mail—not males and females—and, if successful, may revolutionize transportation of all kinds. This is a very crude description, and it may be a long time before it can be carried into actual performance. There is no reason to doubt that it can be done, and the continual advance made by man authorizes us to believe that anything not within the infinite alone may become a realization of the finite.

An intelligent German who is farming extensively remarks that, despite the assurance given THE OREGONIAN a few days since of a large apple crop, his observation shows the apple trees are only bearing lightly. We can add that wherever the codling moth prevails it is worse than ever before known. So far as we can learn, apples are a light crop through all Western Oregon, and plums and prunes are generally a fair crop, but in some parts do not yield so well. Pears are a light crop in some parts and full with others. The dry weather may reduce the size of fruit somewhat, but considering the season it is large where the orchard soil has been duly cultivated. It is of great importance to cultivate orchards.

Woman is called gentle, and to her we ascribe all the virtues and look to her for every hope of good to life. Yet a fallen woman is a fiend beyond comparison. Man cannot become so base or fall so low. The other day they hanged a woman in Philadelphia. We naturally wonder for what crime she suffered the dread penalty, and the answer shows how unfit she was to live. She had a husband and two little daughters, and for the paltry sum of $400 insurance on their lives she poisoned all her family. Truly, woman became lost in this instance, when a mother could forget her child, and even measure the poison to cause its death. It is not possible to imagine the causes that led to such a crime, or frame words to describe the horror of the deed.

When we read of the reckless and dangerous persons who infest great cities, and some not so great, it is pleasant to fall back on our own city and note how comparatively free it is from the desperate characters common to other places. Considering its business and importance as a great trade center, the wealth accumulated here and the promise Portland holds out for the future, this city will compare favorably with any other in the civilized world for the preservation of law and order. Peace has won a victory here based on the will and character of the people more than on the courts. Some fault is found with and is against our police, but the general sentiment that controls the community and is impressed on the place itself is solid, and beyond question is peaceful.

Idaho and Montana stand out for the protection of their lead interests and the state of Oregon can well afford to join hands with them in so doing. In the Cascade range we have ores that will develop immense deposits of lead and copper, also the Coast range may prove rich in those metals, and perhaps both may prove to possess valuable ores of other sorts. Oregon stands in a peculiarly innocent position regarding all such interests because our mines not being developed, it must be merely anticipation with our citizens as only superficial prospecting has been made. But even this has given the assurance that as to the future our state must develop great wealth in this line, so our delegation in congress can afford to side with sister states in preserving and protecting those interests.

The London police are outwitted by "Jack the Ripper" to an extent that would make the police of any American city feel ashamed of themselves. Another and another, and again and again, the same story of horrible butchery and dreadful murder, yet no trace of the perpetrator is found. People of the world's metropolis and of all England have two causes for terror. Women of all classes tremble at the thought of the murderous wretch who chose the name "Ripper" to perpetuate his infamy, and the elite of the whole country shiver in anticipation that the shah of Persia may make them a visit with his retinue. If all the tales told of the shah are to be believed, he is what slang would style "a holy terror," a phrase only permissible in very warm weather, and about very queer subjects. The police should look after the shah if he does all the disgusting things reported of him. He breaks down all the barriers civilization has found time to raise in England; dresses his "houris" in male attire, and has no conception of morality as the European world is trying to appreciate it.

CONGRESSMEN ARE WITH US

They Say the Columbia River Improvements Should Be Completed.

They Announce Their Willingness to Support All Reasonable Measures for this Purpose —A Look at the Jetty

Congressman Dorsey's party of Eastern congressmen have seen the mighty Columbia river, and are willing and ready to support all reasonable measures for the completion of the great improvements now under way. Some are even more enthusiastic, and are in favor of ascertaining how much it will take to finish the jetty at the mouth of the river and of making an outright appropriation of the necessary amount.

Portland has done well in gaining the friendship of these distinguished men and if Burrows the Michigan representative who is with the party is elected speaker of the next house, the city will have all the more reason to feel proud of their visit. From present indications it looks as if Burrows is the coming man. Good political judges in the East say the contest is now between him and Reed of Maine, with the chances in favor of the former. The other aspirants for the place are McKinley of Ohio and Cannon of Illinois.

The republicans will have 166 votes in the next house, of which number it is expected that Reed will receive sixty six, leaving 100 to be divided among Burrows, McKinley and Cannon. Burrows is said to be the strongest of the Western candidates and it is believed that after the first few ballots all the Western strength of Cannon and McKinley will go to him and make him the caucus nominee. It is a case of the West against the East and the West has the power holding 100 of the 166 votes, and is organizing with a determination to wield it. The New England states, New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey are expected to support the Maine man. Reed has many enemies who will fight him to the end.

If Burrows is elected he will be the first Western republican to fill the speaker's chair since the time of Colfax, of Indiana. Indiana was a Western state in those days, but now the Pacific coasters include it in the East. Burrows favors all river and harbor improvements. Reed on the other hand hails from a section of the country that has had all it wants of river and harbor improvements and its representatives are now disposed to stand in the way of the needs of the West in this direction.

When asked about his chances for the speakership Mr Burrows said: "It would hardly be proper for me to say anything, being a candidate myself. It is sufficient to say that the contest until the close will be entirely amicable to all the rival candidates."

OFF FOR THE MOUTH OF THE RIVER.

The party left Ash street wharf on the [illegible] Potter at 8 o'clock Thursday morning. Congressman Dorsey, whose guests the visitors are, had recovered somewhat from his indisposition of the night before and came along, being assured that the river ride would do him good. Ex-Congressman Hayden of Massachusetts was suffering from rheumatism and remained at the hotel. Congressman Burrows, General Goff, Governor Stewart, Captain Herr and Mr Perry S Heath, Washington correspondent of the Indianapolis Journal, were on hand. The Board of Trade committee who accompanied the party were President Donald Macleay, Vice-President F K Arnold and ex-Congressman M C George. Congressman Hermann was also along.

While the Potter was turning around in the harbor the rudder stuck in the mud on the East side and when the hydraulic pressure was applied to guide it the tiller rope snapped. Over an hour was consumed in repairing the break. When this was done the Potter shot through the railroad bridge and went bowling along on her journey to Astoria. The visitors were invited into the pilot house and put in the three hours until dinner in taking in what there was to see along the river.

President Macleay presided at the dinner table. When the bumpers had been filled with crisp and sparkling champagne his health was drank.

Congressman Hermann responded in a brief address of welcome. He outlined the plan that had been arranged for the instruction of the party and expressed regret that lack of time prevented them seeing all that had been arranged for them to see. He insisted upon the visitors accepting an invitation to take a ride [illegible] to see something of the agricultural resources of the state.

The visitors explained that before starting they had agreed upon a regular [illegible] upon the strength of which each had made business and social arrangements which would soon require their presence at home. [illegible] behind time, they said, which would make their arrival at Minneapolis four or five days later than they had contemplated.

Congressman Dorsey then made a few remarks. He spoke [illegible] and himself who [illegible] gress. I am glad [illegible] Willamette and Columbia [illegible] never realized the great [illegible] necessity of their improvement which Oregon's representatives in congress [illegible] many years. We [illegible] the necessity and the [illegible] of congress [illegible] ceeding with the improvement [illegible] of the vast extent [illegible] Columbia river.

INTEREST IN [illegible]

Congressman Hermann [illegible] ment under way at the [illegible] and the proposed improvement [illegible] vicinity of The Dalles. [illegible] when he said [illegible] marked that there [illegible] possible for such [illegible] provement on the [illegible] vide an easy outlet to the [illegible] river country.

The proposition to carry boats around the dalles of the Columbia has not been looked upon with any favor by congress. [illegible] Tehuantepec ship [illegible] been before congress for a long [illegible] congressmen to look into the [illegible] a scheme with the [illegible] port by the house [illegible] canals and the refusal of the house to appropriate money even for a congressional investigation into the matter. The visiting congressmen listened attentively to what the Oregon representative said and felt convinced that the project is feasible, at least so far as the Oregon distance is concerned.

Then followed a general inquiry into the details of the plan made. [illegible] ply to numerous questions [illegible] man said the cost of the railway would be about $1,400,000; that about [illegible] would be required and that the boats such as ply on the Columbia [illegible] could [illegible]

[illegible] this [illegible]

That would make [illegible] would not be able [illegible] was Congressman Hermann's reply.

"How long will it take to complete the jetty at the mouth of the river?" inquired Congressman Burrows.

"If the next two congresses give us as much encouragement as this [illegible] the largest vessel that floats will [illegible] Portland," answered Congressman Hermann.

HOW PORTLAND WOULD BE BENEFITED.

After dinner the chat was resumed in the pilot house and President Macleay was asked his opinion as to what would be the result of the completion of the jetty. He replied:

"Instantly the [illegible] would be thus [illegible] tition between Portland and San Francisco [illegible] or the Oriental trade and so far [illegible] which naturally [illegible] this direction [illegible] cerned Portland [illegible] natural location [illegible] than [illegible] of San Francisco [illegible] communication [illegible] dir [illegible] patronize [illegible]

[illegible] by a committee of the Board of [illegible] of Captain J H [illegible] Holden M C George [illegible] Dr [illegible] all proceeded to [illegible] seeing the salmon [illegible] doomed to disappointment as there was not a fish to be seen.

They then boarded the United States [illegible] George H Mendell [illegible] government works [illegible] landed on a large [illegible] [illegible] and it was [illegible] in the air [illegible] experience [illegible]

[illegible] Engineer C R H [illegible] and [illegible] of [illegible] Who [illegible]

[illegible] jetty [illegible] 5000 feet had been [illegible] trestles. He said [illegible] cut away from the [illegible] of Peacock spit. [illegible] begin surveying [illegible] effect the improvement [illegible] thought the [illegible] channel had been [illegible]

A little time was spent [illegible] of the stone in [illegible] tramway [illegible] some weighing [illegible] struck the water [illegible] gun and great columns of spray [illegible]

The only one who did not enjoy the ride on the tramway was Congressman [illegible] colored Joe. He was the [illegible] that accompanied a party [illegible] and was [illegible] fear as to what would be his awful fate if the train jumped the track. All the way out and back he held on to his seat like grim death and some one was unkind enough to say that he became white under the gills. He was not at ease until the train returned to the wharf. Then he released his hold and jumped off in a hurry.

"Were you scared, Joe?" asked Congressman Dorsey.

"Skeered!" exclaimed Joe, throwing up his hands in holy horror. "Dat I was, Mars Dohsey. I tot dat durned train was a gwine to jump into de watah, shuah, an' you jest bet yo' life I held on wid bof han's. Suppose dat train go into de watah, what become o' you people?"

"We would all be drowned, every mother's son of us."

"Fo' de Lawd's sake, Mars Dohsey," said Joe, "an' you ridin' in de locomotive. Gosh, what would Missus Dohsey say if she'd see you dere? Golly, I was so skeered dat I dasn't look at de watah."

ON THE SITE OF FORT GEORGE

The Mendell then returned to Astoria and the visitors were shown about town. They were shown the site of Fort George, founded by John Jacob Astor and afterward occupied by the British. At Hume's cannery they saw a large number of salmon, weighing from twenty five to forty pounds and were astonished when told that those were small fish. They also examined the nets used by the fishermen. A real estate man who was along furnished Congressman Burrows much amusement. As the party strolled along the real estate man told about the value of property.

"Here is a lot that sold recently for $8000," said he, pointing his finger at an opening between two buildings.

"Where?" asked the congressman, stepping to a railing and looking at the tide below. "You don't mean to say you would charge a man $8000 for a lot that has enough water on it to swim in?"

The real estate man, nothing daunted, added that a fine four-story brick building would soon be erected on the site. This so astounded the congressman that he came near falling through the sidewalk.

In the jaunt Congressman Burrows met Rollin Wood, formerly justice of the peace at Kalamazoo, before whom he made his debut as a lawyer early in the 60s. Justice Wood is now 78 years old, and bent and gray haired, and the congressman would never have been able to recognize him but for his peculiar way of expectorating.

After supper, with champagne accompaniment, the excursionists boarded the steamer Telephone for Portland, arriving here at 4 o'clock yesterday morning. Just before leaving Astoria they saw something that they will remember the longest day they live. A brisk breeze was blowing from the ocean and several hundred fishing boats were lying on the wind with their bows turned toward the bosom of the deep blue sea. The sight of so many sails spread and so many daring fishermen venturing out upon the sea at night excited the greatest interest.

President Macleay remained at Astoria. Vice President Dodd joined the party at that place and told them all about the Chinese, the government's improvements and other matters of interest. He said that so earnest were the people of Portland in the matter of keeping the river open that the merchants of the city frequently contribute money to fit out a dredge to do work that the government of the United States should do.

CONGRESSMAN DORSEY AMAZED

An OREGONIAN reporter talked with the Eastern visitors to get their opinions of what they had seen.

"I cannot express myself," said Congressman Dorsey. "I am amazed at what I have seen along this grand river. I had no idea of a railroad being built into the Pacific ocean. This improvement should be pushed to completion, and the sooner the better and the more economical. In a few years the piling will rot and it will be impossible to replace it, as a new tramway will have to be built. Everything so far as the government is concerned seems to be in fine condition. I have never visited government works where everything seemed to be managed so carefully."

"This is a great triumph of man over nature," said ex Governor Stewart of Vermont. "It is a grand thing indeed."

"I am too bewildered to say anything," remarked General Goff. "It is simply wonderful. You ought to have enough money to complete it. Our government makes a great mistake in appropriating money in dribs for our public improvements. We should ascertain how much is needed to complete this great work and make the appropriation."

CONGRESSMAN BURROWS GRATIFIED

"I have been exceedingly gratified with the improvement at the mouth of the Columbia, which greatly exceeded my expectations," said Congressman Burrows. "A few years ago as chairman of the select committee to investigate the method adopted for the improvement of the Mississippi river and the jetty at the mouth I had occasion to look into the whole system of river improvement, including the jetty method of increasing the depth of water at the mouth of rivers. I then became satisfied that it was the most appropriate plan for accomplishing that end and I see no reason why the work under way at the mouth of the Columbia will not result in giving ample depth of water for the heaviest ocean steamers. I am satisfied with the work and assured it is thoroughly and honestly done and the officer in charge is entitled to great credit.

In view of the expe[illegible] there is no question but [illegible] make an appropriation sufficient to complete the work [illegible] [illegible] than the amount that can be used [illegible] exposed [illegible] to the government [illegible] an appropriation as would bring this important work to a speedy completion. All efforts in this direction will receive my heartiest commendation and earnest support.

I am gratified to learn that the work at the Cascades is progressing [illegible] I think for this work also there should be a sufficient sum appropriated to insure its early completion. This [illegible] the obstructions at The Dalles to open up to navigation and commerce the most magnificent river on the continent and [illegible] upon the people of the Northwest an inestimable blessing."

OFF FOR THE SOUND

The Board of Trade had secured a locomotive [illegible] had proposed to take the visitors to Salem yesterday morning, but the decision of the party to leave for the Sound on the 11 o'clock train put an end to that. They had no time to spare and they had to go, and that was all there was to it.

The morning [illegible] finally spent in a ride through the business and residence portions of town. Stops were made in front of public buildings and many residences. The visitors departed with a good impression of Portland.

SHOES BY THE 15th PROX

The New Shoe Factory at Sunnyside Nearly Completed—Work Being Pushed

A reporter yesterday visited the boot and shoe factory under construction at Sunnyside in East Portland and was surprised to see the large buildings nearly completed. The factory is al[illegible] Monday the company will commence to put in the machinery. The machinery has been here several days but as the building was not quite ready for it none of it has been taken from the freight cars.

[illegible] constructed by the [illegible] of mortar [illegible] are now [illegible] building the large chimney. The engine [illegible] place and the boiler are already bricked.

[illegible] Durphy, one of the managers of the plant, has just returned from San Francisco, where he [illegible] with the factory. He stated yesterday that the company has already [illegible] of leather on hand. Sixty experienced factory hands from the East [illegible] five of [illegible] have built houses near the factory and [illegible] or eight more [illegible] to build [illegible] in ten days. The managers think that a force of sixty men will be sufficient to start the factory and the main working [illegible] for until thirty days after operations are commenced.

"By the end of next week," said Mr Durphy, "we will be cutting leather and by the 15th of August I can show you our first pair of shoes."

[illegible] push and energy is evinced by the pro[illegible] of this new [illegible] is rarely met with. [illegible] contract for the factory was let on the 5th of [illegible] and by the 15th of next month the company [illegible] full fledged shoes, warranted not to rip, [illegible] or run down at the heels.

THE RACES TO-DAY.

Much Interest Manifested by the Local Horsemen

One of the Most Spirited Contests To day of the Season—A Fine Prize for the Winner

In order to make the races to day more interesting and attractive, and as an inducement for the local horsemen to bring out their horses, Messrs Staver & Walker have offered as a prize to be trotted for one of their elegant Clark's spiral spring road wagons. This vehicle is built of the best materials, finely proportioned, handsomely finished, and is the easiest riding road wagon made. By means of the spiral spring the carrying capacity of the vehicle can be instantly changed so as to adapt it to any load. It is a stylish, roomy and comfortable vehicle.

All interested parties will do well to call at the carriage repository of Messrs Staver & Walker in the New Market block, Portland, Or, to examine this handsome prize, and if they do not do their utmost to win it it is to be presumed that the sporting spirit of Portland has gone on a summer vacation, as no handsomer prize nor greater inducement has ever been offered to the horsemen of this country as an incentive to friendly rivalry and the putting forth of their best efforts. The race promises to be most interesting and exciting, as there has rarely been a local [illegible] which has attracted so much [illegible] It may not be out of place to mention here that this gift from Messrs Staver & Walker is but one of many indications of the liberal and broad business policy which has ever characterized that firm, who to day carry the largest and finest stock of buggies, carriages, carts, harness, robes, whips and vehicles and carriage furnishings of all descriptions to be found on the Pacific coast.*

COWARDLY, BRUTAL ASSAULT

A Small, Weak Chinaman Beaten Shamefully Yesterday by a Bully

A Chinaman who drives a truck team for Old Tom [illegible] a harmless and [illegible] was beaten in a most cruel [illegible] by Tom [illegible] on the wharf below the Oregon [illegible] yesterday afternoon.

While the Chinaman was waiting for some [illegible] at Colonel McC[illegible] saw [illegible] treating him [illegible] "What are you waiting here for?" [illegible] the Chinaman was afterward [illegible] the Oregon & California [illegible] a potato or [illegible] striking him in the face. He [illegible] and took up his whip as if to strike him [illegible] around and [illegible] though bystanders who saw the affair say the Chinaman gave no provocation.

Tom went and grabbed the Chinaman, who is not half his size and [illegible] a [illegible] fighter, and putting an arm around his neck proceeded to punch him in the face. [illegible] It was a brutal and cowardly thing to do and there was no justification for it. For a powerful man to thus beat a weak one is the act [illegible] coward and all who [illegible] the [illegible] in their denunciation of the wanton and cowardly cruelty displayed.

The circumstance recalled to many the memory of Tom's brutal assault on a [illegible] since into whose flesh he put his teeth and on account of which he left town suddenly.

Tom's last adventure in the court on account of taking a bribe to leave the city as he alleged, and then coming back and trying to [illegible] the man who gave it [illegible] credit on him [illegible] there were [illegible] that he had been [illegible] no matter who now [illegible] only got what he deserved, and who hope to see him arrested and punished for this last piece of brutality.

If he and Al [illegible] could be turned out to play the part of the Kilkenny [illegible] they might both get their fill.
